Supreme Court Hears Appeal From Clark's Dry Ruling

BIG CROWD PRESENT

Government Seeks to Have Judge Clarke's Decision Reversed By Court

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(UP)—Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes today withdrew from the supreme court bench pending arguments of the government's appeal from the ruling of Federal Judge William Clark of Newark that the eighteenth amendment was improperly written into the Constitution.

Hughes gave as his reason the fact that he was an attorney in the so-called national prohibition cases from Rhode Island argued in 1920, when the courts upheld the amendment and the Volstead act.

The small marble-pillared courtroom was filled to capacity as the nine elderly black-robed justices ascended the bench for today's hearing of the Clark case. A line of more than 50 remained outside hoping to gain admission when those inside were ready to give up their seats.

Hughes' withdrawal leaves the field open for wider speculation involving the court's lineup on the decision. An evenly divided 4-4 decision becomes a possibility, and this, some legal authorities believe, would allow Judge Clark's ruling to stand.

Attorneys for each side were given two hours for argument. This is twice the usual time allowed.

Solicitors assailed the theory evoked by Clark that under the fifth article of the Constitution only state conventions could ratify an amendment similar to the eighteenth, in which additional powers over the people were given to the federal government.

All of the questions raised "so laboriously and ingeniously" by the New York wet lawyers, Thacher said, fall down because they are based in a "mistaken" theory of government. They were presented in the Rhode Island cases, which were decided adversely, he said.

"The solicitor general used only a half hour and concluded with a plea to the court to reverse Clark's ruling."

STATE AID FOR FRISCO BRIDGE PROJECT ASKED

Many Knotty Problems Are Placed Before Legislature Today

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 21.—(UP)—State aid for the San Francisco Bay bridge, unemployment and water conservation were among the knotty problems placed before the California state legislature today.

The San Francisco senatorial delegation asked for $500,000 in state funds as a "loan" for survey plans, estimates and preliminary engineering for the bridge. Senator Roy Felton also presented a companion measure by which state highway funds could be used for maintenance of the big toll bridge when completed.

Repayment of the state appropriation would be made from revenues of the bridge, Felton said. Under his plan, the state highway commission would accept the bridge as a highway crossing as part of the state highway system, by which motor vehicle and gas tax funds would be available for maintenance.

Congress was asked to adopt the "Eagles" bill for stabilization of employment, in a resolution presented by Senator Tallant Tubbs.

"This bill is predicated on the idea that there is no reason or excuse for such cycles of depressions and unemployment as the one through which we are now passing, and provides a means to prevent such national misfortunes in the future," Senator Tubbs said.

"It expresses to congress that California is behind the move providing stabilizing machinery to aid the principles that men have a right to work, not spasmodically but continuously, that unemployment shall be diminished and

His flight originally was scheduled for last Monday but he delayed then to permit alterations to his plane.

CHECK SENT TO RED CROSS BY LOCAL CHAPTER

Total Raised to Date In Santa Ana District Is Now Over $1400

WITH A CHECK for $177 from the Garden Grove Red Cross, representing $150 from the reserve fund of that organization together with $27 in cash turned in to Miss Mabel Head, the treasurer, the total subscriptions to the relief fund of the Red Cross in the south half of the county today reached $1440.97. This total is approximately 37 per cent of the quota of $4,000 given the southern half of the county by the Pacific division of the Red Cross in San Francisco.

Last Saturday Mrs. J. H. Leebrock, secretary, and Harry L. Hanson, treasurer, representing the local Red Cross sent a check for $1,000 to the Pacific division headquarters of the Red Cross, so that the money became immediately available for use in the hunger-stricken areas of the United States. When the subscriptions reach $1500, a second check, this time for $500, will be mailed.

"None of this money is to be kept here for more than two or three days," said Terry Stephenson, Red Cross chairman.

At Laguna Beach, subscriptions are being received at a number of designated places.

DAISY DE VOE CASE REACHES JURY TONIGHT

Attorney For Defense Asks That Client Be Freed Of Theft Charges

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—(UP)—Declaring that blonde Daisy De Voie must be presumed innocent of 35 counts of grand theft until she has been proven guilty, Nathan O. Freedman, young Los Angeles attorney, today pleaded with a jury in superior court to free the former secretary of Clara Bow.

Miss De Voie, who denied charges that she misappropriated jewelry and money belonging to the famous screen star, sat quietly beside her fiancé, Alfred Mathes, as Freedman addressed the jury of seven men and five women in thunderous tones. Clara Bow was not in court and Rex Bell, Clara's current fiancé and a prominent figure in the trial, was missing for the first time in more than a week as court opened. "What have we against this girl?" Attorney Freedman pleadingly argued to the jurors.

"Has she acted indiscreetly? Let us say she has. But Miss Bow, though she is not on trial but only the complaining witness, also has acted indiscreetly. Can't you picture Clara tearing out a bunch of blank checks from the account which Miss De Voie controlled for her? I didn't want to mention that word 'whoopie,' but it is written all over this evidence." The case is expected to reach the jury late today.

Immediate Action On Cheap Foreign Oil Is Demanded

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(UP)—The independent oil producers' fight for a tariff or embargo on oil imports was carried further today by Russell E. Brown, of Tulsa, Okla., who warned against a "vanishing American prosperity" unless immediate action is taken against "new floods of cheap foreign oil."

Brown, secretary of the government's oil conference which met here recently in the interest of tariff, charged in a statement that oil concessions held by United States concerns in Central and South America are being exploited at the cost of American industry and labor and for the profit of a small group.

He predicted an early repeal by Mexico of the export duty of 50 cents a barrel on crude oil, thus stimulating production for export.

SWEEPING DECISION

COLUMBIA, Cal., Jan. 21.—(UP)—A sweeping decision of vital importance to every irrigation district in California, handed down by Superior Judge Ernest Weyand, of Columbia county, was the subject of much discussion here today.

Judge Weyand held, in what is said to be the first decision on this legal point, that a deed received at a reclamation district's sale of delinquent property holds priority over one received under similar circumstances from an irrigation district.

Officers of Association Elected at Meeting Held Last Night

H. P. RANKIN, of the Rankin Drygoods company, was elected president of the Santa Ana Business Men's association at a meeting of the board of directors, held in the offices of the association last night. Rankin was vice president of the organization last year and was president of the association in 1927. He succeeds W. S. Suddaby.

Fred Newcomb, shoe dealer, was chosen as vice president. Newcomb was president of the Merchants and Manufacturers association in 1923 and a member of the board of directors of the association last year.

J. L. Bascom, of the First National bank, was re-elected treasurer. Earl Ruddy was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The board of directors includes W. D. Ranney, of the Excelsior creamery; E. T. Matzer, of the Vandermast clothing store; Bob Fernandez, of the R. A. Tiernan typewriter company; H. B. Van Dien, of Van Dien-Young company; R. E. Bacon, of the Edison company, and George Dunton, automobile dealer. All directors with the exception of Bacon and Fernandez have served before.

Routine affairs and the history of the association were outlined, particularly for the new members. Tentative plans were made for special services to be inaugurated during the coming year, and the group inspected the offices and equipment of the association.

The directors will meet regularly every third Tuesday at 7:15 p.m.

MIX DENIES CHARGE HE BROKE CONTRACT

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 21.—(UP)—Tom Mix, western film star and circus performer, was expected to take the witness stand today to deny charges that he broke a verbal contract allegedly made with Zack T. Miller to appear in the 101 Ranch circus.

Miller has brought suit to collect $345,000 from the actor. He alleges Mix went with the Sells Floto circus after agreeing to go with the 101 Ranch show.

Ruth Stokes Mix, former wife of the actor, testified yesterday that Mix had told her he intended to join Miller's show and that he did not need a contract with Miller. "We shook hands on it," the witness quoted Mix as saying.

LEASING OF SONORA TO U. S. CONSIDERED

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 21.—(UP)—A proposal to lease a part of the state of Sonora to the state of Arizona for 99 years has been introduced in the Sonora state legislature by Deputy M. D. Dekker. The section of the state is that which United States Senator Henry F. Ashurst recently suggested that the United States purchase, along with Lower California.

A group of Mexican deputies made a recent counter-proposal to Ashurst, indicating that they would suggest to the Mexican government that it buy the states of Texas, Arizona, New Mexico and California, and the city of New Orleans.

$1,250,000 In Gasoline Taxes Lost

Amendments to Bill to Be Proposed With Support of Gov. Jas. Rolph

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 21.—In an amazing report, the state board of equalization today revealed that the state had been defrauded of approximately $1,250,000 in gasoline taxes.

The enormous sum represents amounts due under the 3 cent a gallon gasoline tax paid by California motorists and which has never been turned over to the state treasury by oil companies.

As a result of the gigantic swindle, the board of equalization with the support of Gov. James Rolph Jr., proposed drastic reforms in legislation to check the losses and penalize the offenders.

Present laws fail to provide any real penalty, the board explained, and the state has been powerless to enforce collection of the taxes.

While the major companies in most instances were exonerated of blame, the equalization board, empowered to collect the tax, found that the law had been evaded and violated to "an appalling extent, which cannot be accurately determined."

After a conference between the entire board and State Senator Arthur H. Breed of Piedmont, author of the original gas bill it was planned to have him introduce amendments to the measure.

These amendments will provide L-Severe penalties for failure to pay the taxes to the state after the oil companies have collected them from dealers and motorists.

2.—Reduction from three months to one month in the time allowed to transmit taxes to the state.

3.—Bonding of distributors to protect the state against losses.

Governor Rolph was aroused by the extent of the tax fraud when it was brought to his attention by the board of equalization and Rolland Vandegriff, state director of finance.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars in taxes have been due the state since last June the governor was informed.

He was also advised that other frauds exist such as the sale of gasoline within the state after it has been delivered ostensibly for export and therefore tax exempt.

"When it is borne in mind that by not returning the tax to the state," Governor Rolph said, "the distributor is enabled to undersell his competitor, who does pay a 3 cent a gallon tax, it is obvious that the retention of the tax by the seller renders it a vehicle for price-cutting of the most vicious form at the expense of the state."

At present the gasoline tax is collected by distributors without cost to the state.

The governor said, however, he thought it would be better if the collection of the tax were paid for under a system which would insure stronger enforcement of the law.

Travels 2700 Miles On Mexican Bull

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(UP)—Having established a new endurance record, Ralph Sanders, Texas cowboy, was resting up today with his Mexican bull, Jerry, which he rode from Brownsville, Tex., to New York in 254 days.

In the 2700 miles bull ride, Sanders spanned the Ozarks and the Alleghenies, gained 12 pounds and proved the feasibility of long-distance travel by bull to the satisfaction of skeptics back home.

The bull gained 90 pounds, wore out 11 pairs of steel shoes and learned considerable about geography.

CITY AUDITOR SHOWS EXCESS IN TREASURY

All City Bills and Contracts Paid According to Lloyd Banks

ALTHOUGH more than $3800 in excess of the amount allotted to the various city departments has been spent for unforeseen improvements during the first half of the fiscal year, there still remains a surplus of over $5800, according to a financial report issued here today by Lloyd Banks, city auditor and purchasing agent. An excess of $9600 over the budget in receipts was shown.

Last year there was a general tax of $7000 for the city's share in maintaining the metropolitan water district. This year the tax has been taken off and the city has paid this directly from the water fund. All interest and water bond redemptions are being taken care of by the city water fund.

At the present time all city bills and contracts have been paid in full and the city is free from all current bills with the exception of purchases made since January first.

Interesting figures have been compiled showing a comparative statement of funds from December 31, 1929 to December 31, 1930:

Operating funds, 1929, $7,013.36, 1930, $11,473.10; special funds, 1929, $25,309.92, 1930, $16,002.29; Acq. and improvement funds, 1929, $53,201.95, 1930, $20,504.38; street improvement funds, 1929, $151,513.38, 1930, $147,820.34; interest and sinking funds, 1929, $39,785.05, 1930, $37,478.11; grand total, 1929, $294,205.42, 1930, $379,284.28.

ARRAIGN BROTHERS ON MURDER CHARGE

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(UP)—Leo V. Brothers, accused of the murder of Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, was arraigned today before Judge John P. McGoorty and a plea of not guilty was entered for him.

"On advice of my attorney, I stand mute," Brothers said when the court clerk asked, "Guilty or not guilty?" Judge McGoorty ordered that a plea of not guilty be entered.

After the arraignment, Charles E. Rathbun, Tribune attorney and special investigator in the Lingle killing, announced he would seek an immediate trial. McGoorty appointed Judge John Brynaski to set a trial date and hear Brother's case.

Original Plan Recommending Revision of Amendment Is Brought Out

SEE HOOVER'S HAND

Tentative Plan Is Stricken Out Of Final Report Unbeknown to Members

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(UP)—Both the White House and Chairman George W. Wickersham declined today to explain apparent discrepancies between the general report of the Wickersham commission and separate individual statements which were constructed in some quarters as indicating the commission had at the last moment stricken from its report a recommendation for immediate revision of the 18th amendment.

Senator Tydings, Democrat, Maryland, in the meantime introduced a resolution into the senate, asking an investigation of the processes by which the commission reached its findings.

An authoritative source close to the president informed the United Press that the discrepancies resulted when the commission changed an original intention to recommend revision of the 18th amendment, after discussions between Mr. Hoover and Chairman Wickersham.

Judge William I. Grubb, in his separate report, said he concurred in all of the commission's conclusions "except that recommending that the amendment be revised immediately without awaiting further trial." Judge Paul J. McCormick also dissented, using almost identical language. However, the commission's report as it finally appeared made no such recommendation either for action now or at any other time. It merely suggested that "if" anything is done, the amendment should be revised to permit congress to regulate as well as prohibit the liquor traffic.

It was reported in an official quarter last night that a tentative recommendation for revision of the

ALMA RUBENS ILL WITH PNEUMONIA

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21.—(UP)—Alma Rubens, former film actress, who faces charges of violation of the narcotic act following her arrest in San Diego recently, is critically ill of pneumonia, and has been unconscious for 36 hours, it was learned today.

Miss Rubens was stricken two days ago at the home of a friend here. Her condition became so critical that it was decided unwise to remove her to a hospital, it was learned. She was expected to reach the crisis today.

"Alma's condition is extremely critical," Mrs. Theresa Rubens, the actress' mother said, "and we realize it. She is receiving the best of medical aid, but we know she is waging an uphill battle against great odds."

Plan Expedition Into Desert For Dirigible, Bodies

PARIS, Jan. 21.—(UP)—The French government may dispatch a column into the heart of the Sahara to search for reported debris of the German-made French-operated dirigible "Dixmude," which was mysteriously lost in a gale after being buffeted across Algeria and Morocco during the winter of 1923.

The exact end of the great airship which carried a crew of 30 men, has never been known. Although Italian fishermen at Sicily pulled in with their nets the wreckage of the airship's command, Plesin De Grandecan, and long search failed to bring any of the wreckage.

Five Directors Of Y. M. C. A. Named At Annual Meet

ACTIVITIES OF YEAR OUTLINED BY OFFICIALS

Five directors were elected and annual reports from various departments received at the annual meeting of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. held yesterday at the association building.

J. P. Baumgartner, Harry W. Lewis, Charles A. Miller, Thomas J. Hunter and Perry F. Schrock were named as members of the board of directors. The other directors are O. H. Barr, G. Emmett Raitt, J. F. Burke, J. A. Cranston, W. B. Tedford, H. R. Greenwald, A. W. Gerrard, P. R. Davis, George Ash and W. K. Hilliard.

The financial report showed that the association has operated at a net loss of $1327 during the very difficult condition of 1930. Dormitory receipts during the year were the highest in the seven years, while the building has been in use, while membership receipts were considerably below normal. The debt on the building has been substantially reduced during the year.

The report on boys' work showed 542 boys members of the association on January 1, with a very large percentage of use of the privileges by these members. The various facilities of the building were used by 240 groups outside of the regular members' program during the year, some 4822 boys being included in the attendance by these groups. The total use of the physical department and other privileges by boys amounted to 16,436 for the year. Attention was called to the fact that the boys' department was closed for two months during the past summer, on account of the infantile paralysis epidemic, so that the figure represent only 10 months of actual work.

The Santa Ana boys' camp at Oceola last summer was commended as being one of the best camps for boys operated in Southern California.

There were 104 boys in camp, with 14 leaders, and the record showed 52 decisions by boys for either the beginning or the advancement of the Christian life. Special attention was called to the present system of interviews for all new members of the boys' department, in which much good service is being rendered by the secretaries.

Physical Education
The report of the physical department showed a total of 768 gymnasium class sessions for men and boys, most of them personally directed by R. R. Russick, physical director. The attendance at these classes totaled 11,597. More than 200 men and boys were taught to swim, and a number of young men passed their tests as life-savers. Basketball and volleyball leagues have been promoted for men and boys of various ages. The Y. M. C. A. volleyball team last year won the championship of their division in the Southern California league, playing a total of ten matches of five games each, and winning 42 out of the 50 games thus played.

The Y. program specialized on health education, both for men and boys, and particular emphasis has been given to corrective work for boys. A total attendance of 23,194 in all physical department privileges is the record for the year. This figure would have been larger by three or four thousand but for the partial closing down of activities during the past summer on account of epidemic conditions.

Community Service
Much attention has been given by the association workers to social service during the year, as is the custom in the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. Information, public conveniences, employment aid, emergency relief and other lines of work have been carried on continuously, while full co-operation has been given to other welfare agencies in their special tasks.

While the Y. M. C. A. is not supposed to be doing charity work, more than 200 free lodgings were given in emergency cases during the year, and many cases were given other aid.

The program of educational work carried on in classes and clubs has been on a large scale, and of great value. The Toastmasters Club, organized in Santa Ana, has been organized into a federation on an international basis, and is spreading into many parts of the world with its instruction in speech making. By means of lectures and talks of various kinds, much educational work of a popular nature has been done. The Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. has the reputation of offering one of the strongest educational programs of any association in a city the size of this one.

The policy of free memberships for all boys from nine to sixteen years of age will be continued, giving the boys of the community the chance to get full benefit from the privileges of the Association. A special effort is to be made to increase the membership of men, as the membership dues paid by men are the only means of increasing the receipts of the organization so as to enable it to handle the boys' department without cost. The financial support of the work comes in part from membership fees, in part from dormitory rentals, and in part from the Community Chest.

In commenting on the year's work, the president, J. F. Burke, emphasized the fact that while there was a slight deficit for the year 1930, that in spite of it, the Y. M. C. A. had done probably one of the finest pieces of work that it has done for some years, and as a

Calvin Coolidge Says:

BY CALVIN COOLIDGE

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 21.—The country is not in good condition. Considering our reserve powers it is not as bad as some of the assets which are laid out in proposing fantastic plans to save it. But it is bad enough.

That condition always invites bickerings and recriminations. We all claim that fault rests on the other fellows. Such quarreling only makes matters worse. It is useless to stop now to try to assess blame. What is needed is tranquility, moderation and constructive action. When Congress convened there was much hope that the public statement of several party leaders would prove a statesmanlike basis for such needed co-operation on the part of official Washington.

That result is not being secured and the country is suffering. The president cannot abdicate. If there is any co-operation it must be in helping him in his executive capacity to give the country relief and in speedily passing the appropriation bills. No other program can benefit the people. It is no time for politics on the part of any public officials. The country wants action and action without factional opposition. A quiet, candid conference disinterestedly seeking the public welfare would be worth more than many pages of rhetoric.

Copyright, 1931, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Public institution it had related itself helpfully to more people and to more enterprises than is usual for the Y. M. C. A. to do in most places.

He said that this was due to the character of the personnel of the employed staff. Aside from the values that the individual gains from the "Y" in his own town is the consciousness that as a member and a contributor, one has a connection with the world-wide brotherhood that is furnishing educational and religious and political leadership in those sections of the world that are in a state of flux like China. This alone makes the returns upon Y. M. C. A. investment the best of almost any investment that can be made. "We should feel extremely grateful for the manner in which this work has been carried on to afford us the opportunity to travel new highways and greater opportunities for service and helpfulness." He said no phase of the work has been neglected or has suffered. The membership in the "Y" for the younger boys, without cost, is now no longer an experiment; it has proven its wisdom by the value that has been gained from it, and the assurance that the privileges of the "Y" shall not be denied to any on account of the lack of finances enables it in the very nature of the case to do better work for the boys than ever before.

He said the Y. M. C. A. staff is carrying out the ideals of citizenship relating themselves to all of the fine civic bodies and agencies in the city for the carrying on of very definite work. In the work of the Community Chest, the unemployment situation, the open forum, emergency relief, and other various activities not only have the secretaries contributed most valuable work, but the Y. M. C. A. facilities for gathering have been at the disposal of all of these worthy organizations.

Withal, there has been a reduction in the indebtedness, that while there is an amount owing of some $27,500, there is pledged against this an amount so that the balance net indebtedness is only $17,000. This is a reduction from the original $65,000 in the beginning.

He suggested that an organization of the H-Y connected directly with the Y. M. C. A. central office, in addition to the connection with the churches, he believed would be very helpful, and that it would afford an opportunity for activity among a group of young men who may not be able to do or connect up through the churches. Some of them get a greater value from the "Y" directly in this manner than they do once removed by connecting through the churches.

18th amendment had been stricken from the final report after discussion between President Hoover and Chairman Wickersham. The White House, when questioned regarding this point today declined to either deny or confirm it. Chairman Wickersham, however, issued a 34 word statement declaring the report "is absolutely untrue and without any foundation whatever."

The confusion reported in United Press dispatches provoked widespread discussion in Washington. Republican leaders in the senate had been advised the report was to have been read January 6. The commission held poorly attended meetings after January 7 when the report was presumably complete.

Pressed for an explanation of the alleged discrepancies between the final report and the reference to a recommendations for revision contained in some of the individual reports, Chairman Wickersham, Dean Roscoe Pound and Commissioner Frank J. Loesch all refused to make statements.

One official at the commission, however, pointed to section 16 of the commission's general conclusions and sought to explain that Judges Grubb and McCormick were referring to that when they dissented from recommendations for immediate revision. This section, however, is merely a statement that some of the commission favor a further trial of the 18th amendment while others believe there should be revision immediately, concluding with the statement that all unite in recommendations for improving enforcement agencies.

When several newspaper correspondents replied that this did not appear to explain the reported discrepancies at all, one commissioner shook his fist at the group, shouted: "You're imbeciles and if you can't read the English language I can't teach you," and strode out of the room.

SENATE INQUIRY IN SENATE BILL
WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(UP)—Senate inquiry into the Wickersham commission's process of reaching its conclusions on prohibition was asked today in a resolution introduced by Senator Tydings, Democrat, Maryland.

Tydings' resolution would authorize the senate judiciary committee to summon Chairman Wickersham to testify regarding the report, and particularly whether suggestions were received and acted on by the commission from persons who were not members of it. The senator explained that the recommendations of the commission were so confused that they puzzled members of congress who might be called on to base legislation upon the report.

The resolution was introduced after Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, had raised the prohibition question in the senate by sending to the desk to be read by the clerk an article which attempted to define the phrase "intoxicating beverage." The article said that "alcohol relaxes tired nerves," and denied that beverages of small alcoholic content properly could be considered intoxicating.

Bingham then asked Chairman Norris of the judiciary committee whether he contemplated hearings on the Wickersham report. Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, a dry, interrupted to object to further discussion of the subject. But Tydings was able immediately to send his resolution to the desk.

Bingham wanted to know if Norris thought 4 per cent beer could be had under the 18th amendment as it stands.

finally reduced to the minimum, that business depressions may be eliminated and that it is beneficial alike to capital and labor."

A battle by mountain counties of California against the loss of water caused by demands of other parts of the state was started in a series of bills presented to the legislature by Assemblyman H. E. Dillinger of Placerville.

The measures give the mountain counties prior rights to the water originating within their boundaries, and prevent its complete loss through appropriations on the outside. Dillinger pointed out that any co-ordinated water program that may be worked out for the state would not be impaired by his bill.

Although the voters refused to pass a measure at the November election requiring proof of automobile tax payments before obtaining license plates annually, three similar proposals were before the legislature today.

STUDENTS GIVEN TALK ON THRIFT

Rolla Hays Jr., Santa Ana life insurance representative, spoke before the vocational class of the Julia Lathrop Junior High school today, telling of the history of thrift week, now being observed throughout the nation. Hays was introduced by Fred Rowland.

In his talk Hays stressed the importance of saving, calling attention to the growth of a $5000 bequest to the city of Boston, made in the will of Benjamin Franklin in 1790. This fund is to be kept in trust until 1991, when it will amount to $7,000,000, Hays said, pointing out that it now amounts to $380,000.

He pointed out that thrift week was designed partly as a commemoration of Franklin's birthday. Today is life insurance day in thrift week and Hays compared life insurance to a river, fed by small streams, which represent investors. The river is thus given power to turn the wheels of industry, he said.

FIND CLUE TO LOCATION OF MISSING PAIR

Investigation of the disappearance of Charles Huddleston, 43, of 130 West Malvern street, Fullerton, and Mrs. Lola Cook, of Long Beach, on January 13, disclosed that Huddleston cashed a check in the beach city on January 17, Chief of Police W. H. Williams, of Brea, said today.

Police officers are working on the theory that Huddleston and Mrs. Cook are in Long Beach or immediate vicinity. Beach authorities scouted the belief that the woman had met with foul play.

Huddleston, an employee of the Shafter Tool works in Brea, was driving a small truck owned by the firm when he dropped from sight. He visited the Cook home in Long Beach and asked Mrs. Cook, the mother of two daughters, to visit a cafe with him. One of the daughters is said to have told police that her mother demurred at going with Huddleston.

Chief Williams today sent out circulars asking officers to be on the lookout for the truck.

AUTO-HORSE CRASH CASE TRIAL STARTS

The trial of Ben Evans, charged with failure to stop and render aid after an accident, got under way before a jury today in the court of Judge H. G. Ames.

In a statement to the jury at the opening of the trial Deputy District Attorney Leo Fris declared that the force of the impact threw the horse and rider from the road, that the horse had its back broken and the girl had her shoulder broken. Miss Jacobson appeared in court as the first witness, with her arm and shoulder in a sling and frame. William Stevens, a boy near whose home the accident happened, was also a witness.

A. S. BRADFORD CONTINUED AS CHAMBER HEAD

PLACENTIA, Jan. 21.—A. S. Bradford was re-elected president of the Placentia Chamber of Commerce at the regular meeting yesterday and other officers elected were: Gilbert Kraemer, first vice president; J. Willie Bennie, second vice president; E. M. Everett, treasurer; T. E. Pickrell, secretary; William Bielefeldt, delegate to the Associated Chamber of Commerce; James Tuffree, alternate; Bank of America, depository.

E. M. Everett reported 116 members secured during the membership drive and the secretary presented a silver cup to Mrs. Olive Bailey, chairman of the team which brought in 47 members. Other members of the team were Mrs. Nellie Cline and Miss Elsa Ruffi.

Secretary Pickrell announced that the Motor Transit company had offered Placentia 10 minutes of its regular program time over KFI, KGER and KJL for a broadcast, and he also announced that Calvary church was to have a radio vesper hour over the Pacific coast network beginning next month.

E. J. Menard asked that something be done about passing a resolution in favor of a government investigation of the bread trust, but this was left for the incoming legislative committee to take up.

John Tuffree spoke on water conservation, stating that a committee was being appointed to investigate the waste water and sewage in Orange county, and advised all communities to go in with the Metropolitan Water district so that all ground water could be used for agricultural purposes. He cited the case of San Fernando, where the water level has risen 50 feet because of the storage of imported water.

The Rev. D. J. Brigham announced a union meeting at Calvary church tonight, when Dr. Andrew Johnson, nationally known speaker, will be present.

After the meeting adjourned, T. C. Kistner, architect, who drew the plans for Brea-Olinda, Capistrano, Excelsior and other high schools, met in executive session with the education committee.

STATE SCHOOL MAN TALKS ON CRIME CAUSES

"Undirected, or misdirected spare time is one of the most fruitful causes of crime, particularly juvenile crime," said K. J. Scudder, superintendent of the Whittier State School, speaking at the Y. M. C. A. Forum last night on "Crime—Its Causes and Cure."

"Boys without a program or a purpose easily fall into evil ways. The boy who is connected with the Y. M. C. A. or with the Boy Scouts is far less likely to go wrong, because he has something to do, and when his spare time arrives he need not look around for occupation. The place to deal with our crime problem is at its source, and the time to stop it is at its beginning. Our provisions for dealing with crime have generally been of a punitive nature, for the purpose of handling the criminal after he has done wrong. The modern, intelligent method is to keep him from going wrong."

"A delinquent boy or girl usually means delinquent parents. The home is at fault in a majority of the cases. It may be a broken home, with the parents separated, or it may be careless, irresponsible parents, not fit for the responsibilities of rearing children, but we find, as a rule, that deficiency in home training is back of the wrong-doing of the child.

"Society must safeguard itself by giving to the young proper direction and leadership. A city that fails to provide playgrounds with proper supervision for its youth is inviting trouble. Good recreational facilities are a cheap and effective means of insurance for the community."

Mr. Scudder called special attention to the report of the California Commission for the study of problem children, of which commission he served as secretary. This commission made a careful study of the problems of juvenile delinquency, and offered many constructive suggestions in its report, calling for more humane and intelligent treatment of the young who fall into evil ways, including physical and medical examinations, segregation in jail confinement, privacy in hearings, and various other modern methods of dealing with the boy or girl who becomes involved with the law. It is very probable, according to the speaker, that some of the recommendations of this commission will receive favorable attention at the present session of the state legislature.

There has already been introduced Assembly Bill 468, an enabling act which is to make it possible for any community to bring its recreational facilities under a unified control and administration, so that schools, parks and playgrounds and other public equipment may be operated on as nearly a full time schedule as is needed, and so that the local requirements may be fully set as to directed play and recreation. Mr. Scudder urged the value of this measure as a preventive measure for crime, and advised his hearers to lend their influence to secure

SECURITY BANK REPORT GIVEN STOCKHOLDERS

Santa Ana stockholders of the Security-First National bank yesterday were in receipt of the annual report of President J. F. Sartori, which showed that the bank had enjoyed a very satisfactory year in the light of existing business conditions. Copies of the report were sent out by Frank J. Was, manager, Santa Ana branch.

Since the consolidated bank began operating 21 months ago, Sartori said, it and the Security-First National company had added $2,145,466.23 to surplus and undivided profits after paying dividends of $4.48 per share or at the rate of 17.92 per cent per annum on each $26 share.

Combined net earnings for 1930, prior to the payment of dividends, but after all charge-offs and after setting aside ample reserves for depreciation and taxes, were $8,845,630.21, the bank president reported. This is at the rate of 22.8 per cent per annum or $5.70 on each share. The year 1930 closed with deposits at $543,799,658.62; total resources, $611,118,786.68; number of depositors, 709,935; rented safe deposit boxes, 99,292. The bank has 8,915 stockholders, 934 per cent of whom are residents of California. It operates 132 offices and branches.

Sartori stated that a program of economy made effective through the consolidation but delayed somewhat by widespread depressed business, had nevertheless saved the bank about $750,000 per annum in operating expense.

Referring to the general decline of all stocks including bank stocks, President Sartori said, "When we compare the stock of the Security-First National bank with that of 15 or 20 representative large banks in the east, we find that the price of our bank stock has declined a smaller percentage than any of them and considerably less than the average."

20-30 CLUB IS ADDRESSED BY R. A. GOODCELL

R. A. Goodcell, manager of the review department of the Automobile club of Southern California, was the speaker at the dinner meeting of the 20-30 club at Ketter's cafe last night. Accidents on the highways are due chiefly to carelessness and law breaking, the speaker said.

Placing the blame for motor accidents both on the pedestrian as well as on the motorists, the speaker declared that in nearly every accident a law had been broken.

Goodcell pointed out that in the St. Francis dam disaster 400 lives were lost and that the tragedy had made a deep impression on the public, yet an equal number of lives are lost every few months in motor accidents.

Bill Winter was the program chairman and introduced the speaker. Hume West, president of the club, presided at the meeting.

A report of a recent convention of district No. 4 of 20-30 clubs was given by H. McDonald who attended the recent event which was held at Mount Baldy over the week end. District No. 4 extends from Santa Barbara to Los Angeles, McDonald said. Before the August convention of 20-30 clubs of the state at Long Beach is held, it is expected 10 new clubs will have been added to the district, McDonald pointed out in speaking of the rapid growth of the organization.

Eighteen new direct toll circuits between points in Georgia, terminating in Atlanta, have been completed recently and placed in service.

Louis Lumiere, French scientist, is reported to have perfected a metal film on which photographs can be taken.

HIGH SCHOOL AND COLLEGE MAKE WHITFORD AND DUNLAP STUDENT BODY PRESIDENTS

Student bodies at the Santa Ana high school and junior college elected officers yesterday, with John "Sky" Dunlap being chosen president of the Jaycee students and Minor Whitford being named leader of the high school organization.

Dunlap, Ed Conner, Wayne Flinn and Warren Schutz were in the race to succeed Abbott Mason, incumbent Jaycee president. Whitford won out over Al Reboin and Paul Wood in the high school contest.

A total of 243 collegians went to the polls. For the office of vice president, Tom Clark defeated Oran Asa; Miss Ada Marie Hendricksen, present secretary, won out for re-election over Helen Hendricks and Mary Mateer; and Bruce Harbottle for treasurer.

At the high school Duncan Harbottle, incumbent, was elected to succeed himself to the office of vice president and received the honor of getting more votes than any other candidate in the election. He gathered a total of 505 votes. Betty Hawk, his nearest rival, tallied 187 markers.

The race for the position of secretary was the most hotly contested event of the election with Mary Helen Bell, present secretary, barely nailing out Dorothy Hatch by 55 votes. Eunice Hoffman and Helen Green & Sanders, of Charlotteville, Va., are contractors for the beacon, which will be 51 feet and six inches in height. The beacon is being built and will be maintained by the airways division of the Department of Commerce, and its purpose is to guide pilots who wish to land at night. There will be 1,000,000 candlepower used to illuminate the beacon, which will revolve at the rate of six times a minute.

Foundations were being laid today for the aerial beacon that is to be erected at Eddie Martin's airport. Over one ton of steel will be used in building the beacon, which will be 51 feet and six inches in height.

The beacon is being built and will be maintained by the airways division of the Department of Commerce, and its purpose is to guide pilots who wish to land at night. There will be 1,000,000 candlepower used to illuminate the beacon, which will revolve at the rate of six times a minute.

Wiesseman were elected girls' self government commissioners by a close margin. Other candidates for the position were Evelyn Fairley and Charlene Lowell.

For the boys' Self Government positions Floyd Blower and Paul Jacques were again voted into office. Bill Kistinger proved winner in the contest for the commissioner of publications. He received 505 tallies while Earl Motley, running for the same office, received 370 votes.

The new college officers will be installed on February 3, which is known as "King's Day" and at which time the outgoing president has full reign over the college. The four new officers will pick the new commissioners to fill the offices on the executive board.

The college election yesterday was carried out in full observance of national laws. Polling booths, an impartial election board, registration, numbered ballots, tally sheets and all the other regulations were carried out to the letter.

Voting was carried on from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. in the Associated Students office. A big election extra of "El Don" was issued this morning.

The present executive board, which will go out of office in two weeks, consists of Abbott Mason, president; Warren Schutz, vice president; Miss Ada Marie Hendricksen, secretary; Tom Clark, treasurer; Oran Asa, commissioner of El Don; Betty Maloney, commissioner of Del Amo; Marion Parsons, commissioner of women's athletics; Tom Cone, commissioner of men's athletics; Wayne Flinn, commissioner of forensics, and Maybelle Hall, commissioner of social activities.

Among the entertainment features planned for the meeting of the Santa Ana Breakfast club at Ketter's cafe will be the appearance of Junior Kavanaugh, juvenile singer and dancer of this city, according to an announcement today by Edward W. Cocher, chairman of the program committee.

Working with Cocher in planning tomorrow's program are Clifford Greenleaf and Jack Cope.

L. A. Ryherd, salesman for the Chevrolet Motor Car company, reported the theft of his machine from near First and Sycamore streets early last night.

W. Scheeler, of Placentia, was run down by an automobile driven by J. A. Trendle, of 420 North Claudina street, Anaheim, at Fourth and Ross streets last night, according to a report to the Santa Ana police. He was not badly hurt. Scheeler's daughter was with him at the time and said, according to a police report, that she would take care of her father. Trendle reported the accident to the police.

FOX PREVIEW WILL BE SEEN HERE TONIGHT

The latest Fox Movietone production, a picture of which advance notices have been particularly good, will be previewed at the Fox Broadway theater tonight at 8:30 o'clock, according to an announcement made at noon today by Norman Sprowl, Fox theaters manager.

The picture stars one of the best known stars of his type on the screen and is sure to be a picture well worth seeing, according to Sprowl. It will play in connection with the regular feature, "Min and Bill," which opened a four-day engagement at the theater yesterday.

The name of the preview is not allowed to be given to the public in advance but the fact that it is a Fox picture just finished and not ready for release and starring an actor who was seen in one of 1930's best shows, indicates that the preview is something out of the ordinary for previews.

Mrs. Magdalena F. Wanzel, state chief of adult immigration work in California, has just concluded a two-day visit to Orange county, during which time she was the guest of Mrs. Golden Weston, director of adult education and Americanization work in the Santa Ana schools.

Mrs. Wanzel was the guest of honor at a breakfast given by Mrs. Weston at her home, 422 East Chestnut street, at which full time teachers in the local Americanization work also were present. The group conferred on problems in the work. Teachers present were Mrs. Bessie Harter, Miss Grace Reeves and Miss Florence Moreland.

The state chief visited home classes and Americanization centers as well as the three night schools in Santa Ana. She praised the work here and showed particular interest in the class at the county jail, the health campaign being conducted with the assistance of the county health department, and the class for Mexican mothers, under Arletta Kelly, in Fullerton.

During her stay she visited schools in Fullerton, Orange and Anaheim, also. She expressed satisfaction over the attitude in Southern California toward the Americanization work.

Fullerton Citizens Vote To Join Water District

PROJECT WINS APPROVAL WITH BIG MAJORITY

FULLERTON, Jan. 21.—Voters of Fullerton yesterday endorsed the proposition calling for the annexation of Fullerton into the Metropolitan Water district by an overwhelming vote at a special election held yesterday. The result of the election regarding the proposition was: Yes, 1369; No, 53. Total vote cast was 1422.

The election yesterday was marked by an exceptionally light vote with only a 21 per cent of the registered voters going to the polls. Registration in the city was 4632. An educational campaign setting forth the necessity of membership in the Metropolitan Water district was sponsored by the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce and other civic bodies during the past few months. Voters were urged to take the opportunity of assuring a supply of water from the Colorado river through the Metropolitan Water district.

The vote by precincts at the election yesterday was: Precinct 1, yes, 282; no, 11; precinct 2, yes, 295; no, 27; precinct 3, yes, 375; no, 27; precinct 4, yes, 402; no, 28.

Forgets Hot Cakes After Viewing Sky

SAN CLEMENTE, Jan. 21.—Carl Lindbom, architect, was visiting Dan Mulherson, San Clemente contractor, over the week end. Lindbom, who has designed many houses in the Spanish village, is also an artist of parts. He got up early on Sunday morning and told his host he would take a swim before breakfast. Mulherson waited and waited. The hot cakes grew cold. No Lindbom. Then Mulherson began to get worried. The contractor started a search for his guest. No Lindbom. In the afternoon the architect returned.

"Why the sun, the flowers, the beautiful ocean and sky made me forget everything," he said. "I took a swim and then started to walk. Before I knew it I was halfway to Oceanside."

PROTECTION OF HOUSE OWNERS BOARD TOPIC

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 21.—How to prevent undesirable tenants from renting property and how the Realty board can be of service to the community when improvements are under way, were subjects brought before the board at yesterday's luncheon at the White House cafe. Committees were announced by Roy W. Peacock, president of the board, for the ensuing year.

Discussion of ways of effecting a protection of property owners against the vandalism of certain tenants or from those who fail to pay rent or in other ways become undesirable resulted in naming a committee of Maud M. Peck, Dr. F. E. Callister and C. Hartwell Smith to make a report and suggest a method.

It was the suggestion of Mr. Smith that the committee be appointed which would make a study of public improvements in general and of projected improvements in particular, this committee to offer its advice and to give information to property owners. John Jehle thought that the civic committee had a similar object, and the proposal was laid over for a meeting.

Gassy Stomachs Made Well

Every person who is troubled with gas in the stomach and bowels should get a package of Bauman's Gas Tablets and see how quickly they will relieve all distressing symptoms.

ISBELL NAMED PRESIDENT OF BEACH C. OF C.

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 21.—Lester L. Isbell, Newport Beach lumberman, will head the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce for 1931, being elected president at the first meeting of the 1931 directors' board at the Green Dragon cafe yesterday. Isbell has been a director of the chamber since its organization in 1927. He succeeds Dr. F. C. Ferry, Balboa banker, who was elected treasurer for 1931 at yesterday's meeting.

L. S. Wilkinson, ex-city councilman, retired railwayman and pioneer of the city, was elected first vice president, and Harry H. Williamson, another former city councilman, who is serving his first year as director of the chamber, was named second vice president.

The other directors for the year are H. L. Sherman, E. I. Moore, W. L. Jordan, C. H. Way, J. P. Greeley, Steve Smith, J. A. Beck and Conrad Shook.

G. C. MacLeod was reappointed secretary for the fifth year. President Isbell announced that he will name chairmen of standing committees at the chamber's next meeting next Monday at Ed Morris' cafe.

The directors decided to aid the Business Men's association in staging a Southern California girls' swimming carnival scheduled for May 24. Members of the association had approached the chamber and asked for aid in staging the event.

Dr. Ferry, retiring president, thanked the 1930 directors, committee members and other members for their work last year, a year of considerable progress in the Newport harbor district, and he and Isbell appealed for the same co-operation toward making 1931 a banner year.

Film Star Faces Reckless Driving Charge In South

SAN CLEMENTE, Jan. 21.—A will known film star faces arrest on a reckless driving charge due to an accident about six miles south of San Clemente Monday morning, according to Capt. Harry Comber of San Clemente. The actor, driving north from San Diego, crashed into a car driven by N. M. Jensen, of Cypress, and Mrs. Jensen was injured. She was taken to the San Clemente hospital, where she was treated by Dr. Garnet E. Grant for a broken collar-bone and a broken nose. Although both cars were demolished only Mrs. Jensen was injured.

Jensen informed Officer Comber he would file a reckless driving charge against the driver. The movie star told the Spanish village officer he would file a counter charge. As the accident occurred in San Diego county on the state highway a state traffic officer has been informed of the facts in the case.

Mrs. Jensen left for her home in Cypress yesterday.

Making Laughs For Sixty Years

An unusually intimate close-up of Weber and Fields, the most famous and historic of American comics, who began wisecracking in the 1870's and are still at it over the radio and in the talkies

Joe Weber . . . has hair of silver now . . . and a grandfatherly look . . . but he can still hoof, as these girls . . . from the old comedians' new movie venture can testify.

Lew Fields . . . his skin bronzed by a summer at the seashore and on the links . . . is remarkably well-preserved for a man who has been making 'em laugh for 60 years.

SCENE: Hallway of the WOR broadcasting station. The time is mid-afternoon. The background of the corridor has the impersonality of gray cement and plaster. Doors lead everywhere into soundproofed rooms, and as they open they offer a quick glimpse of intricate radio apparatus. Performers rush in and out, brushing each other without so much as a casual greeting—all of them with eyes glued upon wrist watches.

Inside one such room, five musicians from a studio orchestra struggle at imitating the broken and crude brasses of a little German band.

And just outside the door, two elderly men lean against the wall reading from typewritten manuscript. One is tall, wiry and well-preserved. His skin is leather-brown from a summer of golf links and seashore. The other is short and dapper in a trimly tailored suit of gray mixture.

The tall man begins to read:

"Vell, Mike, id's useless—if you had less brains you'd still hef nudding."

"Yah—vot's der answer—Meyer?"

"I'm tryink to drive into dot dumb head sometink about polidigs. Now, vot are you, Mike, vet or dry?"

"I'm dry."

"The music show world has never outgrown . . . the influence of the old burlesque . . . and it isn't likely to." Weber and Fields in their heyday.

The broken German dialect . . . that put Weber and Fields in the Encyclopedia Britannica . . . was a pure accident. . . . They started out with a straight black-face act.

cent. "Yes, it seems that every so often we have to get back. Do you know that we still remember our old routine? Just today we were working on gags that would be up to date—things we could send over the air. And, going through material, we found ourselves swinging back into stuff we had used 30 years ago. We both knew the patter—picked up each other's cues and could have done any of our acts on a minute's notice.

"Do we miss an audience? Well, yes. When

I think back it seems amazing how simple it is to bring entertainment into the home of today. You struggled and fought for your entertainment and your chance in the old days. That's why we old troupers can never forget.

"Do we think the modern public has grown away from the old German dialect comedy? No, indeed, my lad. And it never will. There happens to have been a change in things and I can't explain why there have been so few dialect comedy teams of our type. But the music show world has never outgrown the influence of the old burlesque, and it isn't likely to.

"Take the blues songs that you hear in the revues of today. You can trace that type of song right back to the Bowery and the Barbary Coast—songs once sung in tough joints.

"And as for us, we'll go right on until we're mowed down—and we happen to be feeling pretty chipper right now. I go to my office every day, and so does Lew. And we get a real kick out of making people laugh—it's been our life. We've brought that release from reality and worry—and if you've helped make people happy, believe me, you feel happy too."

THOSE old wounds—that regrettable split which became one of the most famous in the history of the theater, that sent on different roads the two lads who had battled up out of the slums together. It's all healed now; healed these many years. And with a deep affection superimposed on sentimental memories.

"Fight with him?" comments Joe Weber, looking up at his towering partner. "How can I? He could knock me over with two fingers. I found that without him it was

(Copyright, 1930, by EveryWeek Magazine—Printed in U. S. A.)

When the chance finally came . . . the ghetto kids didn't even have enough money for burnt cork. . . . A sidewalk vendor let them have charcoal to "black up."

like being cut in two. The whole world knew us as Weber and Fields, and even though we could stand alone, it wasn't the same."

The studio call sounded and they rushed in like the most enthusiastic of tyros. Soon the garbled dialect was going to the millions.

"Listen, Mike, if you're going to be dry, you need a vote."

"Vot kind of sense is dot? If I'm going to be dry I need a towel."

So it goes—right back to the timeless waggery! And just around the corner of the years—two ghetto lads living within a few blocks of each other.

Here, in a dingy, sunless cellar is reared little Moscha Weber—who became Joseph Weber. One of a brood of 17, with poverty and necessity stalking all about.

And just around the block, Lew Schonfield, who turned his name into Lew Fields for stage purposes.

Then two lads tossed together at the famous old Public School No. 42 in the heart of the ghetto—two lads pursued by the street gamins of the East Side and finding a shelter in the Weber basement.

Just down the street—the Bowery: the Bowery when it was the Bowery, a sailor's delight and filled with much that was glamorous and much that was mean. The whole aspect of the amusement world was as different as night is from day. The Museum was to the period what the movie is today. There were any number of museums scattered through the city, with a freak show on one hand and a theatrical performance as a sideline.

But way back in the '70's, you find two ambitious little products of the ghetto trying to crash through the barriers and get a chance to "show their stuff" on the stage. And when, thanks to a stubborn refusal to be turned down, that chance finally came, it found

Lew and Joe without even the price of the black-face makeup required for their particular number. Finally they induced a sidewalk chestnut merchant to part with a few bits of burnt charcoal, for their makeup.

A stage manager, trying to be rid of them, advised them to call upon Tony Pastor.

They were told that Pastor, then quite a theater dignitary, might be found at his place of business about 7 o'clock in the morning. Dawn found them waiting. And Pastor was finally run down somewhere around noon.

When the lads burst in on him and showed him their tricks, Pastor laughed in high amusement and advised them to wait 10 years and then come back to see him. After that they found a chance in one of the newly-opened museums.

It was quite by accident that they took to German comedy. They had been working in straight black-face, adding to their wardrobe each time they earned their few dollars a week.

One night, when appearing at a Bowery theater in Chatham Square, a German dialect act appeared as a rival. But it was pretty bad and was taken off.

The manager liked the idea of tongue-twisting foolery.

Whereupon, the youngsters informed him that they had a German act as well. As a matter of fact it had never occurred to them before. And when the manager insisted that they have their act ready by the following night, Lew and Joe had to make good their bluff. So they went to work like Trojans.

Joe begged an old pair of trousers from his father and stuffed himself with a couple of old pillows. By performance time they were ready for the act. And since both had been brought up in Yiddish homes, the matter of swinging into broken German was quite simple.

And today, two grandfatherly men read a manuscript of broken German dialect into the microphone. They are still making people laugh after 60 years.

In order to offer the best possible variety and appeal, the Santa Ana radio station will conduct weekly tryouts or auditions for children, in charge of Miss Croddy. This plan is expected to offer an opportunity to all types of young artists to participate in the programs.

These auditions will be held each Saturday from 8 to 10 a. m. in the studio of KREG, located on the second floor of The Register building, Third and Sycamore streets. Any child up to the age of 14 years who can sing, dance, recite, play a musical instrument or do anything suitable for broadcasting, will be given an opportunity at the studio to try out for the children's hour programs. The first tryout will be held next Saturday between 8 and 10 a. m.

The return of the children's hour is expected to meet with favor from many listeners who enjoy the KREG programs daily. The children will welcome a program presented by children for their benefit and adults will appreciate the added variety which the new feature will offer.

JACK DEMPSEY TELLS OF FUTURE PLANS

Foust Leases Delhi Club To Benny Whitman

EX-REFEREE TO OPERATE ARENA ON SOUTHSIDE

Henry T. Foust, Santa Ana boxing promoter, today leased his Orange County Athletic club at Delhi to Benny Whitman of Los Angeles. Whitman, for the past several years a commission-licensed referee and a frequent participant in that capacity here, will assume charge of the southside arena immediately.

The opening show under his promotion will be offered the first week in February, is understood. J. M. Katz, wealthy Los Angeles sportsman, will be associated with Whitman in the operation of the Delhi club. Whitman, however, will act both as promoter and matchmaker and thus expects to reduce materially the overhead which made Foust's regime such a financial problem.

Experienced in every angle of boxing, Whitman believes he will be able to successfully promote here. Before becoming a state referee, Whitman served in various business capacities, promoting and matchmaking included, in Santa Barbara and other upstate cities. He has long been regarded as an honest, sincere, above-board figure in the business of broken beaks and mangled ears. Foust's contract with Whitman runs until the expiration of the lease more than two years hence. The former referee completed all details of the transaction today, securing his bond and obtaining from the boxing commission his 1931 permit to promote and make matches. He expects to move to Santa Ana this week.

Orange County voters No. 527 of the 40 and 8 society, the American Legion organization which has been affiliated with Promoter Foust in the operation of the arena, will not be associated with Whitman.

The Foust-Legion hookup was in effect several months. Both parties were well satisfied with the arrangement although patronage did not increase materially, it was said. Although still retaining control of his club at San Bernardino, Promoter Foust's lease to Whitman virtually means his withdrawal from the boxing game. Foust has been anxious to dispose of his arenas for over most of the duties at San Bernardino to Joe ("Pop") Barrett, erstwhile matchmaker for the Delhi club, and is said to have a deal cooking for the disposal of his entire interest in the inland organization.

Foust's other business enterprises demand more of his time and attention than he has been able to devote to them under the past arrangement.

BLAME CARNERA FOR BAY BOXING FAILURE

OAKLAND, Jan. 21.—(UP)—Eastbay boxing business, ailing for several months and victim of a critical relapse in the shape of the Chevalier-Carnera debacle and its train of investigations, looked shakier still today.

To add to the many worries of those interested in the East Bay Athletic club, major boxing plant on this side of the bay, club finances have gone in the red and there is discussion in the ranks. It was disclosed today.

Monday night, with the popular "Speedy" Dado in the main event, the card drew a "crowd" estimated at 2000. Ten minutes after the first preliminary went on, seats could be had four rows from the ringside.

WINTER SPORTS POPULAR
BOSTON, Jan. 21.—Cold weather sports apparently are destined to enjoy extraordinary popularity in New England this year. Twenty-two winter carnivals already have been scheduled in the six states, with likely to be added.

Pitt Hoopsters Learn To Shoot 'In Dark'

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21.—Vision, taste, smell, hearing and feeling are generally accepted as the five senses, but to that group is added a sixth—muscle projection—as taught by Dr. H. C. Carlson, basketball coach at the University of Pittsburgh.

"It has been determined that errors in basket shooting are of two types," declares the Pitt coach. "They are direction and distance. A player improves his direction in daily practice and is better as the season progresses. His errors in distance will not be diminished unless he practices while blindfolded."

Pitt players are taught while blindfolded to project the ball the correct distance. Pitt quints have been unusually successful, so Dr. Carlson must be right.

FOREIGN STARS TO COMPETE ON INDOOR TRACKS

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Unless the boys break training or a few legs in 1931 indoor track season promises to furnish the keenest competition the sport has enjoyed in several years.

For a month or so ago prospects for a roaring time on the hard-wood circuit was far from encouraging. The home grown runners looked none too good, the dismal 1930 season was still remembered, and not a single foreign star had agreed to come across and add the ever attractive international flavor.

Today, however, things were downright rosy. This, because the few meets run to date, the old standards showed amazing for one or two sensational youngsters were uncovered, and three foreign stars announced their intention to compete. In fact, one of the European aces, Dr. Paul Martin of Switzerland, arrived here yesterday and immediately plunged into training.

The good doctor—he's mighty good around 1000 yards—will be joined February 3 by Fern Martin and Paul Keller, French middle distance aces. When these three invaders face the starting gun against a field that includes such American stars as Ray Conger, Eddie Roll, Fred Vey and Gene Venzke there is going to be a footrace that is a footrace.

Martin is the present holder of the Metropolitan and National A. U. 1000-yard indoor titles. Martin is credited with spinning the fastest 800 meters turned on an outdoor track in some time. Conger, well, Ray is just about the best middle distance in the world.

Martin devoted most of his cross-training to trotting 'round and 'round the various decks of the Bremen and landed in first class shape. He wasted little or no time, however, in getting down to serious training. Last night found him working out in the 115th Infantry armory in Newark, where he makes his debut next Wednesday night in the 1000-yard event of the Newark A. C.'s annual games. Conger is also entered in this event and hopes to erase the defeat Martin handed him in the same race a year ago.

The Swiss doctor is also booked to compete in the Millrose games in Madison Square Garden February 7. Conger will again be on hand to match his long, smooth strides against the doctor's rolling gait.

DIVODI IS WINNER OVER SAM JACKSON

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—Andy Divodi won a decision over Sammy Jackson in a 10-round bout here last night. Jackson started fast, but after the opening round, Divodi had him blocked in the clinches and won on points.

George Dixon won a technical knockout over Joe Blitto in the fourth round of the semi-windup. Hymie Miller also took a technical knockout decision over Joe Galvis at the end of the first round of the special event.

SEWELL JOINS PASSING SHOW OF BALL VETS

By LES CONKLIN
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—One by one the diamond stars of yesterday are passing out of the picture.

Close on the heels of the release of Hank Deberry by Brooklyn to the Oakland club in a deal for a younger catcher, came the news that another veteran, Joe Sewell, had been released unconditionally by the Cleveland Indians.

The little Cleveland infielder joins the list of Deberry, Eddie Moore, George Sisler, Jack Quinn and other old timers who have been dropped from the big time circuit since the close of the 1930 season. And since the minor leagues have accepted the revised universal draft as demanded by the majors—the International and Three-Eye circuits fell in line yesterday—indications are that other veterans will be released, now that the big league clubs will be able to obtain younger replacements, they can afford to let the old times go.

Of course there are several major league teams that could use Sewell. He is only 32, batted .299 last season and was topped in the fielding averages only by McManus, Bluege and Dykes among the regular American league third basemen.

But figures, as far as fielding averages go, do not tell the story of Sewell's 1930 record. Joe was "playing on a dime," and many grounders went whistling past him that he would have stopped in his prime.

Sewell completed his first year in the big leagues under dramatic circumstances. Joe, just graduated from the University of Alabama, started the 1929 season with the New Orleans club. Cleveland purchased him late in the season to replace Ray Chapman, who was killed by a ball pitched by Carl Mays of the Yankees.

At the age of 21, the untried rookie was thrown into his first world series. He came through with flying colors and was an important factor in Cleveland's victory over Brooklyn that fall.

Sewell then proceeded to become one of the best shortstops in the league. Only twice in the next ten years did he bat less than .300, and on both occasions he missed the charmed circle by only one point. He hit .325 in 1929, and his marks for the next decade were .318, .299, .353, .316, .335, .324, .316, .323, .315 and .299, for a grand average of .320. Joe batted out an even 1,800 hits for Cleveland. In ten full seasons he never collected less than 100 bingles a year.

One factor that made the Alabama boy a great batter was his left-handed batting. He set a record by striking out only four times in 155 games in 1925, and also whiffed only four times during the 1929 season. Joe led the American league shortstops in fielding in 1928 but was beginning to slow up, and was shifted to third base in 1929. He leaves his brother, Luke, on the Cleveland club breaking up one of the game's famous brother combinations, just as the release of Deberry broke up the famous battery of Vance and Deberry.

He leaves his brother, Luke, on the Cleveland club breaking up one of the game's famous brother combinations, just as the release of Deberry broke up the famous battery of Vance and Deberry.

Wesley Feiler, chosen by many football authorities as the best all-around player of the year, has a baseball star at Ohio State, and upon graduation was offered a guarantee of three months' trial. He turned it down for a job as ceramic engineer at $100 a month. . . . and now is superintendent of an Ohio pottery. . . . Wes has transferred from the engineering to the commerce school and will not be graduated until 1932. . . . He probably will help coach next fall. . . . Wes received several juicy offers to become a professional, but turned them all down at the advice of his brother.

THE KID GOES ON
Evers, Chance, Hans Wagner and the other diamond stars of his youthful heyday have passed from the baseball picture. A new generation of ball players has grown up around him. Yet Rabbit Marvelli—the old kid of baseball—goes on and on.

When the call sounds in the south in spring, Rabbit, nearly 39, will pack his kit down on the farm near Rochester and get going. In St. Petersburg he will be among the first of the rookies to take the field. He will spit into his glove, put his hands on his knees, cry

ORMSBY'S ROOTING SECTION

Here is the little family of Emmett ("Red") Ormsby, American league umpire. In the picture are, left to right: Emmett, Jr., 4; Byron Bancroft (named for Ben Johnson, former president of the American league); 3; Dolores, 2. Second row: Helen, 5; Mrs. Ormsby, holding Robert, two months; Daddy Ormsby, holding Edward, 1; Rita, 8. In the rear is Rosemary, 6.

The Baseball Guesser May Have No Friends But He Is Greatest Man In The World When He Is Home

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER
(N. E. A. Sports Editor)

Maybe it's true that an umpire "ain't got no friends," but that's no reason for his being lonesome. Proof of that is Emmett ("Red") Ormsby, father of eight bouncing boys and girls.

There isn't a lonesome moment around the Ormsby home in Chicago at 2511 West 95th street, in the suburb of Evergreen Park. The oldest of "Red's" eight children is Rita and she's 8; the youngest is Robert and he is not quite three months old—eight children in eight years.

Tommy Connolly, oldest of the American league umpires, used to be a family man in a small way himself, and every few years he would write Prexy Ben Johnson to the effect that a new name had been added to the Connolly roster, an addition would have to be built to the old home in Natick, Mass., and it might not be an inappropriate gesture to give Mr. Connolly a raise in pay.

But if "Red" Ormsby had received a raise in pay for every addition to his family, the man would be independently rich.

Out in Cleveland in the summer of 1929, Umpire Dick Campbell was behind the plate, "Brick" Owens was at first base and Ormsby at third. It was a close game, the A's and Indians battling along on pretty even terms. Late in the game Lew Fonseca bunted and beat it to first. Mr. Campbell ruled Lew out for running out of the baseline on the way to the bag.

Considerable heat thereby was kindled among the merry villagers in the stands, who tossed a few bottles indiscriminately at this umpire and that. Over at first base, Mr. Owens, actuated by a pure but dumb design for furnishing some comic relief, did a windup with one of the bottles and went through motions as though to throw it back at the customers.

After Mr. Owens' silly pantomime, the patrons started throwing in real earnest, hurling onto the field whatever conveniently fell to hand. Still Ormsby pursued his way leisurely along the baseline, the very picture of calm indifference under fire. The other umpires kept an eye on the stands but Ormsby never turned his head. Suddenly a well-arched throw descended upon Ormsby's head, and he went down like an oil stock in a selling wave.

I often wondered at his calmness that day under fire, and gave credit for that brave nonchalance to the fact that Ormsby had been up there in the front lines with the United States Marines during the war, and was injured to volleys of various projectiles whizzing about his ears. Now I know differently. What are a few pop bottles tossed at a man with a family like Red's? An umpire's job? Phaw! That's a vacation!

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Jack Dempsey has to ride the rails a lot to fulfill his ring refereeing engagements. Three days after he handled a wrestling show in Dallas, Tex., he referred a boxing bout in Newark, N. J.

SAINT QUINNET NOSED OUT BY ORANGE. 24-23

Brushing up for their third conference stand of the season at Pasadena Friday, the Santa Ana high school varsity basketball squad went to Orange yesterday and after a game in which Coach Bill Cook gave his reserves a workout came home with the short end of a 24-23 score.

The first half was a listless affair, marked by poor passing, inaccuracy in shooting, and fouls, which incidentally won the ball game for Orange, nearly every free shot being converted by the sharp-shooting Orange forwards and guards while Al Reboin was the only Saint to collect via the foul route.

The first quarter saw Orange take a 6-4 lead which it turned over to the Saints at half-time when the Saint regulars came in took charge of the situation, bringing Santa Ana's total up to 12, one point to the good.

During the last half both teams played with more pep and fire. The Saint substitutes started the last half and although they played gamely, Orange hand no trouble in running up 11 points to outdistance Santa Ana by five points as the cagers swung into the home stretch. At that point the Saint first string went in again and staged a strong rally which was cut short by the gun.

SAINT 'B' QUINNET IN 28-26 TRIUMPH

Coach Clyde Patton's Santa Ana Class B basketball squad nosed out the Orange "B" team, 28-26, in a snappy game played at Orange as a preliminary to the varsity combat.

Patton upset the dope by starting his second string which came through in a stalwart manner more than holding their own with the classy Orange bunch for three quarters.

Taylor, Saint forward, starred in the first half with six points to his credit which was the main reason why the Saints held a 16-10 lead at the half-way mark. Spurgeon played a whale of a game on defense.

In the third quarter Orange made a spirited rally to overtake the Saints and hold a two-point advantage going into the fourth quarter. The regulars then were inserted for Santa Ana and they easily forged ahead, Conrad, Clark and Rucker making baskets while holding Orange to a solitary field goal.

Out of the affair on account of illness and it is doubtful if he will be in condition when the "Bees" travel to Pasadena Friday to meet Pasadena 130-pounders. Chamberlain or Klepper will fill in for him. Both are versatile on offense and defense.

Boy Golfers To Hold Tourney At Willowick

A match play golf tournament open to Santa Ana boys aged 12 to 15, inclusive, will be held next month at the Willowick public course. The winner will receive a handsome silver cup.

Contestants will compete from scratch. Entries will close January 31. Pairings will be announced February 2 and tournament play will begin immediately.

Entries may be filed with Miss Nora Reid at Julia Lathrop junior high school or L. W. Archer at Santa Ana high school. The fee is 55 cents.

Disillusioned, wiser in the ways of a slice of the world for which he was too good, Henry T. Foust happily, voluntarily stepped out as Orange county's boxing promoter.

Less than three years ago, he was a man without a care and the leisure with which to enjoy life as he found it.

Then he allowed himself to be pushed into the promotion of this strange thing called boxing—and was lost.

From that moment onward, he no longer was the conservative business man with the comfortable private income. He was thrust out in front of the public. So was his fortune. It apparently became as public as the town pump at which everybody helped himself.

In the months that followed, Promoter Foust became known as the promoter who never got a break. If he scheduled a show that figured to draw, it was rained out of countenance. If he tried to make a deal, some chiseler would whittle his way in and strip the man down to his waistcoat.

Luck was against him, they said, and for once they were not far wrong.

Foust could have gone on and on. He wasn't whipped by any means. He doubtless dropped some cash in the venture; but not as much as it might seem. The box office did well enough until last year. Money didn't make Foust pause.

What cooled him was exhaustion. He simply grew fatigued trying to operate honestly a business that doesn't want to be run that way.

Finally he realized what others had been telling him—he was too good for the game. He won't admit to that. But that is what happened. The last straw was one of the last matches he promoted—the Canto Robleto-Young Sport fiasco. Foust was proud of the match-making genius that arranged that set-to. He actually outmaneuvered Hollywood and Pasadena for the bout. He quietly contended he was giving his customers a New York show at Santa Ana prices.

Some of those closest to him whispered word of warnings. Some of the doubting Thomases said it looked funny to them. This provoked the trusting promoter. He was crushed, terribly disillusioned when the referee tossed Robleto out of the ring as a fakir, a fraud.

Foust was through after that. He resolved to get out of the game while his reputation was still secure. He was convinced that boxing was no place for him.

Honest, conscientious, generous, Foust realized at last that those virtues are only sneered at in the alleged "manly art."

BREATH OF SPRING
Customarily strong in baseball, usually dangerous in football, Fullerton has always been a weak sister on the high school cinderpath.

Now the up-country institution is out to build up its reputation in track too. For the first time Fullerton has employed a full-time track and field coach. In past years the chemistry prof did the tutoring or maybe the basketball skipper devoted a few of his spare moments to the task.

Clarence Bishop, former Pomona collage track hero, is going to coach the trackmen. He has started off like a live-wire.

The first thing he did was bid for and obtain the Coast Preparatory league's annual meet.

Now he has compiled a set of all-time Fullerton records which nobody has taken the trouble to assemble before.

Already Bishop has the cinder-paths at work.

Look out for Fullerton.

FORMER CHAMP LIKES CARNERA TYPE OF RIVAL

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(I.N.S. Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—"If I ever fought again—"

Jack Dempsey smiled across the room at his wife, Estelle Taylor, the screen star, as he said it. "If I ever fought again, and I could pick my opponent I'd select Primo Carnera," he declared. "I always liked those big fellows."

(Jess Willard and Luis Firpo were big fellows). Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey, now married six years and apparently as happy a couple as when the wedding bells rang, sat in their suite at a hotel here today and talked at length with the writer about Dempsey's glamorous past, his future, the question of whether he will ever fight again and various other matters—including the subject of how to be happy though married.

Bouquets From Jack
Once when Jack left the room for a minute, Miss Taylor, with all the enthusiasm of a bride, exclaimed:

"Jack's a grand husband—simply grand."

On a table were two bouquets of flowers that Jack had just given her. Mrs. Dempsey was asked if there was any truth in a story published recently to the effect that Dempsey was eager to box Primo Carnera for the title, but that she had put her foot down on the idea of him ever fighting again.

"Ridiculous," she asserted. "I would never try to tell Jack what to do. I never have tried to tell him his business. He is able to think for himself."

Just Keeping in Shape
Dempsey was asked if the fact that he has begun training at Artie McGovern's gym meant that he was getting ready for a "come-back" in the ring. He said no, that he was merely trying to keep in good physical shape.

The former heavyweight champion wore a light blue lounge robe. His left hand was bandaged. It seems a carbuncle broke out on one of his fingers and became infected. He doctored it off and on for an hour.

Dempsey was asked if there was any truth in a printed rumor that he had been offered $750,000 to fight Schmeling, but that he had turned it down because Mrs. Dempsey was opposed to re-entering the ring.

"O never received such an offer," he said, "and furthermore, Estelle has never objected to me fighting anybody, anytime."

Lost $25,000 At Ensenada
I asked Dempsey how much he lost in his investment in the Ensenada gambling resort venture in Mexico and, with characteristic frankness, he replied:

"Not much—about $25,000." Dempsey doesn't regard "25 grand" as a great deal, in view of all he has made, and the fact that he has been making important money for the past year as a referee. He gets as high as from $3000 and $5000 for a single appearance.

"I like refereeing because it keeps me in the fight game," said Dempsey. "I like to get around and meet my friends all over the country."

Dempsey still is rather vague regarding his future. He thinks that ultimately he will "go into some kind of business."

Predicts Political Career
"I have a hunch that ultimately—in five or ten years—Jack will become a politician," said Mrs. Dempsey, a woman of strong intuition. "You just wait and see."

Dempsey said he has no intention of fighting anybody at present. He said he was glad that the New York boxing commission gave him a clean bill of health on the intimidation in some quarters that he did not properly referee the Baer-Heeney fight in Madison Square Garden last week. He said he thought that the referee should be given full charge of fights. He is opposed to too many ringside officials.

Asked to rate the leading contenders, he did so in this manner: Stirling, Schmeling, Sharkey and Carnera.

Stirling Ranked First
He gave Stirling first place on the basis of his knockouts of Otto Von Furst and Phil Scott in the last six months; he rated Schmeling second because he won the title; Sharkey third because of his general ability and Carnera next because of his immense bulk and speed for a big fellow.

Dempsey thinks Sharkey lacks the "stuff" to win the title. He said Sharkey should have whipped him but when he (Dempsey) began sinking hard blows to the Boston

PROTECTION OF CITRUS GROVES CENTER TOPIC

ORANGE, Jan. 21.—"Frost Protection" was the subject of the address given by Ross Shafer, of Tustin, at the meeting of the West Orange Farm center held at the West Orange school house last night. G. C. Bradford presided at the meeting. A. F. Schroeder gave a report of the directors' meeting. The membership of Orange county was given as 1409 and that of San Joaquin county as 1950.

Mr. Shafer gave an instructive address on the handling of the orange crop with smudge protection, explaining the merits of different makes of smudge pots and the different manner of handling them for the best protection with the least smudge nuisance.

An invitation from the Poothill Farm center to unite with them for the February meeting was accepted with this center as host for the program.

John W. Crill, president of the Orange County Farm bureau, explained the different projects taken up in the county and requested this center to make a selection of the projects that would be taken up. The projects chosen were the 4-H clubs, citrus fruits and walnuts. The problems for study will be water, taxes, education along agricultural lines and proposed legislation affecting the farmer.

An educational film was presented by the M. Eltiste company, showing farm machinery plants, stockyards and the prize winning 4-H club members. Following that film a comedy was presented.

STUDENTS TOLD OF JOURNEY TO FROZEN NORTH

ORANGE, Jan. 21.—Calling attention to the fact that the people of whom he was to speak lived as did mankind 20,000 years ago, Capt. Donald R. McMillan, who is to make his fourteenth trip into the Arctic this summer, gave an interesting talk on "Northern Lights" at the assembly at the Orange union high school yesterday.

The speaker described the Greeley expedition into the north in 1881, when, following government orders, a party of 25 men set out to meet the government boat which had been crushed in the ice. Only seven of the men survived the winter they spent on a point of land near the spot where they were to have met the boat.

McMillan, 24 years afterward, visited the hut where the men lived before leaving to meet the boat and found food and personal belongings the men had left behind.

The skill of the Eskimos in managing their 20-foot boats in hunting animals which weigh 2000 pounds was told by the explorer. The natives of North Labrador and Greenland are very intelligent and many of them have white blood, the speaker said.

The films taken by the explorer on his last trip north were shown and revealed many scenes never before shown on the screen. Pictures of icebergs showed towering masses of ice 200 feet above the water and 2000 feet beneath.

One of the most remarkable scenes shown was that of a herd of musk ox at close range and the picture of a small gull keeping two huskies at bay.

Eskimos have no books and no schools, but are intelligent. They cannot swim, but are the best hunters in the world, McMillan said. They believe that the stars are the spirits of the Eskimos and that shooting stars are spirits going visiting.

Two heralds will stand at the front of the stage and will make the announcements.

Colored streamers, which will be carried by the boys as they make their entry and which will be fastened at the back of the stage, will form one of the colorful effects planned.

Another assembly of interest will be that of next Wednesday, when members of the second period drama class will present an one-act play, "The Pot Boilers."

In the report of T. E. Woodward, manager of the La Habra organization, it was pointed out that the packing house is one of the greatest sources of income to the average community in Southern California, and one of the most consistent employers of labor.

"We handled about 44,000 field boxes of fruit during the 1930 season," Woodward told his growers, "and in these transactions this association paid into the community, for labor, supplies, taxes and other expenses, $25,848.70, exclusive of the amount of money we returned to the grower for the fruit sold."

Another point stressed was that the citrus industry in California is one of the white spots for labor, especially in the present, with more than $40,000,000 to be paid by California packing houses, in 1931, for the conduct of their business. This expense, he pointed out, does not include the ranch expenses, which will touch an average of $250 or more per acre, nor transportation expenses to get the packed fruit to market.

The annual meeting of the La Habra concern was held in the banquet room of the Masonic temple, with a turkey dinner at noon for 79 guests. Several short talks were made in addition to the reports, among the speakers being C. P. Easley, general manager of the Mutual Orange Distributors; W. H. Blodgett, manager of the field department, and A. L. Chandler, of the fertilizer department.

Woodward's report shows that the concern handled in 1930 44,732 field boxes of fruit, with house receipts of $145,771.35. This was a decrease of 40 per cent on the quantity of fruit handled in 1929, owing to the generally short crop in 1930.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COLORING

This should be a snow scene which will contrast with the black crow very nicely. The sky should be a blending of blues and warm grays at the top of the picture with a light wash of purple and yellow, gradually getting lighter and more yellow as it nears the horizon, which will give it an evening glow; the trees in the distance should be bluish gray with a light touch of yellow and red; the snow in the middle distance and foreground should be almost the same color as the sky but a more even tint; the dead limb upon which the birds are perched can be colored with gray, green, a little blue and a touch of red and black. The crows should be black with shadows of dark blue and high lights here and there of light blue; the crows flying can be colored a bluish green; adding a touch of light yellow and pink here and there will give a very pleasing effect.

the basis of all fruit received in the house, of all grades and sizes, are given as $3.195 the field box on valencias; $2.35 the field box on lemons and $2.445 the field box on navels.

Grade averages were high, the report shows, with valencias going 50.6 per cent, lemons at 57.3 per cent and navels at 93 per cent Pure Gold.

Increases in acreage for 1930 were 20 per cent on lemons, and 17 per cent on oranges, the report concludes.

NEWEST TYPE OF VENTILATOR FOR BROADWAY

Workmen today were busy at the Fox Broadway theater doing the preliminary work for the installation of a new $10,000 furnace and cooling plant, plans for which were approved by the Los Angeles West Coast theaters office yesterday.

The new plant is to be one of the finest in Southern California, and modern in every respect, according to a statement made today by Norman Sprowl, Fox theater manager for Santa Ana.

The new system will circulate warm air through the theater during the winter time and through a refrigerator plant in connection, will circulate cool air in the summer.

The ventilators of the theater were destroyed several days ago through a fire which burned through the partitions, and the management at this time applied for and received the latest type of furnace and cooling plant for the Fox Broadway.

It will require about six weeks to install the new ventilators, Sprowl said.

GEREN HONORED FOR PRODUCING MOST BUSINESS

Charles V. Geren, 426 Linwood street, general agent for the Great Republic Life Insurance company in Orange county, recently was signally honored by his company for leading all agents in the country in the production of business for the month of December.

Geren is well known in Santa Ana and Orange county, where he has lived for a number of years.

In the Great Republic News, house organ for the company his picture appears on the cover page and the following item is carried: "Hats off to Charlie Geren, General Agent at Santa Ana in charge of Orange county, who led the entire field for December in volume of paid-for business, winning first place on the honor roll for the month and the coveted front page appearance on this issue of the News. It will be noticed that his name on the Roll of Honor for December is followed by three stars indicating that this is his third appearance on the list of leaders for the month during 1930.

"That Charlie is one of the big boys in volume of production is shown by the fact that he qualified in third place as a leader for the year. An attractive feature of his record is that it is on new insurance paid for on the annual basis, showing the high quality of the business. His December volume was in excess of $100,000 representing a nice fat bonus prize in the campaign of the Golden Harvest plus previous paid production during this drive. This is a mighty fine record and Charlie is entitled to the hearty congratulations which are extended to him."

Appointment Of Stanton Praised

Commending the recent action of Governor James Rolph in appointing Phil Stanton, Orange county rancher and member of the Republican state central committee, as a member of the state highway commission, members of the board of supervisors yesterday officially wrote to the governor. The new appointee is a man of wide knowledge of conditions and needs in the southern part of the state and the supervisors congratulated the state executive on securing Stanton's services.

LEGION PLANS SERIES OF BIG MEETINGS HERE

The first of a series of big meetings which are expected to extend throughout the spring months has been announced for the Santa Ana post of the American Legion on Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the Legion's home on Birch street.

Norman Sprowl, Fox theaters manager here, will be the principal speaker of the evening and his subject will be "Why Is Business."

Plans have been made by Hunter Leach, post commander, Charles Van Wyk and by Lester Steinkopf for a series of smart talks by leading citizens of the community at the meetings to be held during the next six or seven weeks and some time during this period the state commander of the post is expected here for a visit.

"We expect to have talks on politics, business and various other subjects each week at the post, believing that this will be of interest to the members and will stimulate a larger gathering at the post meetings," Commander Leach said.

Aside from the speech by Sprowl Leach announced that several high class acts of vaudeville would appear, including the Earl Kennedy company, a musical act made up of blind veterans from Los Angeles. This act has won praise throughout Southern California. There are a number of musical instruments and many of the numbers are specialties.

Evelyn Vee Gaylord and a line of girls from her Santa Ana dancing school also will be on the program for Thursday night.

Attendance at the Legion meetings in Santa Ana has always been good and with the announcement of new entertainment along the line mentioned, Leach said he believed that interest would be on the upward trend almost immediately.

AID POSSIBLE FOR WIDENING COAST HIGHWAY

Aid for a widening project on the coast boulevard through Huntington Beach at the two "bottle necks" on either side of the city may be forthcoming from the state and county, it was learned today from L. W. Blodgett, attorney for the beach city.

Action has been taken by the council of the city looking to widening two stretches of pavement totaling about two and a half miles in length from 20 to 40 feet in width. Through the main part of town the boulevard is paved to a width of 80 feet and the city feels that inasmuch as it has expended over $300,000 on this work it should have aid from the state and county in the present project.

Approaches to state and county officials have resulted in favorable reception of the matter, according to Blodgett. The plan calls for the state to pay half of the total cost, which is estimated at $80,000, with the city and county joining to pay the balance, each paying 25 per cent. County aid has been expended in other city projects on main thoroughfares and the beach city is asking an appropriation of $20,000 from the county on this improvement now proposed.

WILL INVESTIGATE HEATER EXPLOSIONS

A committee composed of Councilman Stanley Goode, J. L. McBride and W. J. Kelly, has been appointed to investigate the explosion several days ago, of a number of hot water heaters located at the extreme end of South Sycamore street.

Six heaters are said to have exploded in the 1900 block. New fire hydrants recently have been installed in the district and tests of these were made, throwing more water pressure into the pipes, this

Birthday Surprise Is Planned to Honor Miss Edwards

A pleasant and highly successful surprise party was given Monday evening in the home of Ensign and Mrs. C. C. Edwards as a birthday compliment to Miss Martha Edwards, a sister of the Ensigns. All plans for the happy evening were arranged with strict secrecy, and when Miss Edwards reached home in the evening and walked into the dining room she was amazed to find a merry group assembled around the table awaiting her coming.

The table was a picture in itself, with yellow and white blossoms harmonizing with artistic place cards and dainty rose favors. The sunny effect was apparent in all details of the dinner served, including the delicious fruit cake of the dessert course which was decorated in yellow and white.

Covers were laid for the hosts, Ensign and Mrs. Edwards, the young honoree, Miss Martha Edwards, Miss Josephine Norton and Messrs. James Berry and Harry Sturgis. A merry evening followed the anniversary dinner and many pretty gifts were presented to the honoree.

Modes of Travel Are Discussed Before Woman's Club

"A History of the Different Modes of Travel Since the Settlement of the United States," chosen as the theme of yesterday's meeting of the Santa Ana Woman's club, proved to be one of the year's most interesting features, according to the opinions freely expressed by the clubwomen. Adding to the pleasure of the day was the hospitality of Mrs. G. J. Mosbaugh, who opened her spacious home at 636 North Broadway for the meeting, recalling to the members the pleasant informality of the days when the club was always entertained in a private home rather than in club rooms or church social halls as is the present rule.

During the business session conducted by the president, Mrs. William Kuhn, an outstanding feature was the presentation to Mrs. F. H. Finney, of a pretty lamb's wool comfort which the clubwomen had made and tied expressly for her. Mrs. Finney's home recently was destroyed by fire, with a consequent loss of all her household equipment, and the gift of the comfort was a friendly gesture of sympathy on the part of the clubwomen who she had served so faithfully as president.

In presenting the afternoon's program, Mrs. William Whitehead read a most enlightening paper prepared by Mrs. Anita L. Alexander of the public library, in which the subject was developed in a fascinating manner. Mrs. Alexander had prepared the paper as a courtesy to Mrs. M. J. Mark, chairman of the afternoon, and was accorded a vote of thanks by the appreciative clubwomen.

Mrs. Anna H. Gale discussed "Early Transportation in New England," and dwelt particularly upon the water ways telling of the development of the Erie canal, and of the famous "Clipper Ships" that rounded the Horn. It was especially interesting to learn the important place which the Erie canal occupies today in shipping circles. Mrs. Mosbaugh was more general in her paper which brought the transportation modes up to the present day, and ranged from the days of the covered wagon and pony express through the completion of the first transcontinental railroad to the present easy modes of travel.

Mrs. Whitehead went back to primitive days, speaking humorously of the manner in which the cave man must have scolded his wife to be the burden bearer, later taming and utilizing the wild dogs. The Indian trails and the primitive use of sticks fastened to the half-wild ponies, were described, as well as the Spanish carreta. Discussions followed the papers brought out various modes of travel which those present had experienced.

Announcement was made of the annual dinner to be held February 3 in celebration of the club's thirty-first anniversary, and Mrs. William West submitted the menu planned by the Aid society of the First Christian church, which will serve the mid-day dinner in the new social hall of the church. All reservations must be in by Friday, January 30, and those who have not yet made reservation, may do so by telephoning Mrs. West at 630R, or Mrs. Kuhn at 3384W.

Collins of Santa Ana lodge, and Ralph E. Graves of Silver Cord lodge. Officers of the latter organization included in addition to Graves as master, Dr. Cassius Paul, senior warden, and Robert Birkhead, junior warden.

In the presentation of the master's jewel to each of the retiring masters, Charles F. Mitchell, past master of No. 241, presented the gift to Elmer Hinds, while Charles McCausland, past master of Silver Cord, made the presentation to Carl Edgar, junior past master of that lodge. Several brief congratulatory talks were made by visiting Masons before the new officers and their respective lodge groups were invited to the banquet room for a bountiful supper menu prepared by Sidney Babcock and Jack Lloyd and their assistants.

The lodges are anticipating an eventful year, according to Arthur Collins, new master, who spoke particularly of the part the new Masonic temple will play in the year's activities. It is expected that the building will be dedicated early in the summer, and its spaciousness and modern equipment be fully ready for the various Masonic orders.

The basement will be finished as a ballroom and banquet hall, with a completely modern kitchen, and with seating capacity for over 600. On the first floor will be found club rooms for both men and women while on the second floor will be two lodge rooms of average size, a lounge and coaching rooms. The main lodge room will be on the third floor and will have all modern equipment including a full sized stage with remarkable facilities for entertaining. The seats at the side lines will accommodate 500 allowing ample space for all floor and dress work.

"The completion of the building will give inspiration to every Mason in Santa Ana and in fact, the whole of Orange county," today declared Collins in discussing the building.

Eighty members and guests were present on a Bible class of the First Christian church held a regular monthly social in the new educational unit. Men of the church were given a special invitation to attend the affair. Games and contests were enjoyed, and arousing much interest was the newspaper supplement which was distributed, and found to be replete with amusing items.

A social hour followed, and at a late hour appetizing refreshments were served, with Mrs. C. E. Price as chairman of the committee. Mrs. L. Crasher was in charge of the program. This was the first of these monthly affairs to be held, and it was voted to continue them. Women are anticipating their next session, when it is believed men of the church will be hosts.

Cowboy Artist-Author Is Study Theme of Book Reviewers

Will James, famous cowboy writer and artist, and his romantic career offered material for an interesting meeting yesterday afternoon, of the Ebell First Book Review section whose members enjoyed the hospitality extended by Miss Rosa Boyd and Mrs. Frank H. Paterson in the home of Miss Boyd, 801 North Main street.

"Lone Cowboy," the latest book by James, and one which was chosen in August by the Book of the Month club, was the particular theme of the meeting and was reviewed in illuminating manner by Mrs. Wyckoff Hoxie. She spoke of the vivid picture of frontier life given by the author, of his birth in a covered wagon, his orphaned state at such an early age, his rearing by a ranger and horse-wrangler until he reached the age of 15, and of his subsequent years as brought out in "Lone Cowboy."

The talent for drawing which manifested itself in his childhood was recognized in his maturity when his wife persuaded him to submit his sketches to a publisher and his self-illustrated books, "Smoky," acclaimed as a boy's classic, "Cowboys North and South" and "Lone Cowboy" have met with gratifying success, as Mrs. Hoxie pointed out. James is now living on a little Wyoming ranch within a hundred miles of his birthplace.

In the business session following the review and its discussion, section members voted to pay a dollar each towards the fund contributed annually to the general Ebell treasury.

There were over 35 section members present yesterday afternoon to share the interesting review and the hospitality of Miss Boyd and Mr. Paterson during a pleasant social hour.

last evening with the Rev. and Mrs. W. H. McPeak in their home at 216 Orange avenue. Election of officers and planning for the class reunion in the near future were features of the evening.

The program included some humorous reminiscences by the Rev. Milford Tidball, as well as stories and a reading by Dr. Emmett Raitt. Musical numbers were given by the Santa Ana Troubadours, and Little Miss Marjorie Ann Johnston concluded the group with two sacred songs.

Home Builders
Officers for this year were elected last evening when members of the Christian Home Builders' class of the First Christian church met in the new educational building. John J. Mills presided during the session, and was re-elected to serve as president.

Other officers chosen were D. Tibbals, teacher; George M. Taylor, vice president; Mrs. H. J. Becker, class secretary; Mrs. Dale Elliott, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Tibbals, treasurer.

A social hour followed, and during this time games and contests were enjoyed. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Tibbals, hosts for the evening.

Mrs. Henry Walters Has Luncheon For Her Sister

A luncheon of charming appointments was that of yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Henry Walters entertained in her home at 1605 East Fourth street honoring her sister, Mrs. Guy Gardner of Oakland, who is spending several days with her.

The delectable menu was served at 1 o'clock and centering the table was a delicately-fashioned crystal shower of yellow roses, resting in a black bowl. Gold candleholders bore slim black tapers, and the attractive motif was carried out in the china luncheon service.

The afternoon was spent informally, with some of the guests doing fancy work. Those sharing Mrs. Walters' hospitality, other than the honoree, Mrs. Gardner, were Mrs. Frank Andrews, Mrs. W. B. Williams, Mrs. Amos Cox, Mrs. Ben Kellogg, Mrs. Dan Cook, Mrs. Fred Robinson, Mrs. J. E. Kellogg and Mrs. Stella Menges.

PARENT-TEACHERS

At the meeting of the Julia Lathrop junior high school P. T. A. held recently, Mrs. M. E. Geeting, president of the society, read a play, "The China Pig." A discussion of the play led by Mrs. W. A. Wallace followed, and from this emanated the topic of "The Psychology of Child Training."

Special features of the meeting were vocal solos by Miss Dorothy Proctor and Louis Holmes.

A meeting of the executive board followed, and at this time plans were made for the Founders' Day program to be held February 14.

COOKING CROQUETTES AND ROASTING COFFEE HAVE MUCH IN COMMON

Success Depends Upon the Rule - A Little at a Time

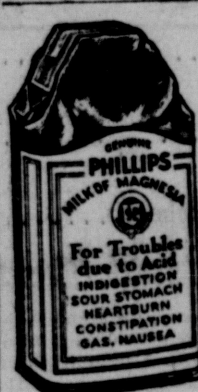

Careful cooks do not crowd too many croquettes into the hot fat because they lower the temperature and then absorb grease. Cooking a few at a time prevents this. In roasting coffee there is a similar difficulty when too much is roasted at once. It is impossible to control the heat and often, as a result, part of the batch is overdone and part underdone. This causes variation in flavor.

Hills Bros., following the rule in the croquette recipe, roast only a few pounds of coffee at a time by their patented, continuous process—Controlled Roasting. There is no variation in the roast because there is accurate control of the heat, also of the flow of coffee through the roasters. A rare, uniform flavor is developed such as no other coffee has.

Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee in vacuum cans that keep it fresh. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed from the cans when they are packed, and kept out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can. Hills Bros. Coffee, Inc., Los Angeles, Calif. ©1931

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should learn all about Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book, "Useful Information." It will be sent you FREE. Write The Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., New York, N. Y.

In buying, be sure to get only genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.—Adv.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

How to Cook a Beef Pot Roast

A delicious way to cook a beef pot roast is to prepare it by the "sauerkraut" method, translated, means sour beef. Put the beef to soak in a mild vinegar solution for 48 hours; spice the solution with bay leaves, pepper corns and a few whole cloves.

To prepare: Take from the solution, wipe dry and brown in hot bacon fat, transfer to a covered kettle, add a little of the vinegar solution and the spices, bring to a rapid boil, add a little hot water, a sliced onion, some chopped celery tops and a chopped carrot. Cover and simmer until tender, strain off the broth and thicken for gravy. The proper thing to serve with sauerbraten is raw potato pancake. This is the recipe as it was given to me by a lady who was brought up on them.

RAW POTATO PANCAKES

1 cup grated raw potato
2 eggs, well beaten
1 teaspoon grated onion
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup flour, mixed with
1 scant teaspoon baking powder.

Break the eggs into the mixing bowl, whip to a froth, add the grated raw potato, whip to mix well, then sift in the flour, salt and baking powder, mix to a smooth batter, add the grated onion and fry in small cakes using butter or bacon fat.

The same mixture is very good, baked. Butter a square pan large enough to have the cake not more than half an inch thick when baked. Have the oven quite hot, cut the potato cake in squares and serve in place of potato.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Rice Corn Bread
1 cup boiled rice
2 cups white or yellow corn meal
2 eggs, well beaten
2 tablespoons melted butter
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 1/2 cups sweet milk
1 teaspoon salt.

This is one of the fine things in which you can use cold boiled rice. Mash the rice and put through a sieve, or, to save time mash the rice by running it through the food chopper—this mashes it quite thoroughly.

Beat the eggs till very light, add the milk gradually, and continue the beating till all is in. Sift the cornmeal and baking powder together and beat it into the milk. When smoothly mixed, put in the rice, salt and melted butter, beat a little. Butter a shallow pan, put in the batter so that it is not over one-half inch deep, and bake in a hot oven for 20 to 30 minutes.

Serve in squares, piping hot from the oven, with plenty of butter, and some good jam or marmalade.

A bare 1700 calories is the total for this sum's hot breakfast bread. There is enough for six people, and the type of calories are those we need to supply energy for the body engine.

Little Selway Lad Makes His Arrival

It was at an early hour Sunday morning in St. Joseph's hospital that little Stephen Francis Selway made his arrival here, and is now receiving a warm welcome from a host of friends of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Selway of Tustin.

His young mother is reported as making a nice recovery. Prior to her marriage she was Miss Dorothy Holmes, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Holmes of 1408 North Main street. She is a popular member of the city's younger social set.

"MIN AND BILL" ON AT FOX BROADWAY

Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery, who have scored repeated successes in separate vehicles, are now to be seen in their first co-starring picture, "Min and Bill," which will open a four-day engagement starting today at the Fox Broadway theater.

That the two players are as equally at home in the one field as in the other was evidenced in the startlingly contrasting roles played by Miss Dressler in "Anna Christie" and the subsequent "Caught Short," and by Beery in "The Big House" and "Way for a Sailor."

In the current production Miss Dressler is seen as Min, proprietress of a waterfront hotel, and Beery has the role of a boisterous fishing-barge captain. The cast also includes Dorothy Jordan, heroine of Ramon Novarro's "Devil May Care" and "Call of the Flesh," as Min's adopted child; Marjorie Rambeau, the New York stage star, as the real mother.

The plot centers about Min, who has done her best to give Nancy, her adopted child, a better environment than that of the disreputable waterfront neighborhood in which she was left by the real mother, a woman of bad reputation.

IRVINE

IRVINE, Jan. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Hazen and daughters, Maxine and Vivian, and their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Haskins, of Santa Ana, spent the week end at Wrightwood, near Los Angeles playgrounds.

Little Elinor DeSelle, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bardwell, of Tustin, who has been seriously ill at their home, is very much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. William Tidball, of Santa Ana, are the parents of a baby boy, born at the Santa Ana Valley hospital January 10. Before her marriage Mrs. Tidball was Miss Lucille Sears, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Sears, of the San Joaquin Fruit ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boosey and daughter, Betty, and sons, Cecil and Elwood, spent Friday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tucker in Tustin.

Several of the local boys and girls enjoyed the picnic given by the Order of the Clip of the Tustin union high school at Forest Home Saturday, among them, Bud Staples, Alma McDonald, Frances Curt, Dorothy Penman and Vera McDonald.

Plans are being made for a community card party to be held at the old school house February 7. The proceeds are to go to paying for the chairs and card tables purchased some time ago. Prizes will be awarded the high and low scores. Refreshments will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stockton and daughters, Lois Mae and Kathryn, of Santa Ana, were Sunday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boosey.

Mrs. Oswald Staples and her little son, Junior, pupil of Mrs. Bardwell's fourth grade, entertained the class at a party in the school house Monday noon. The table was beautifully decorated in gold and white, with napkins and favors in same shades. Refreshments of cake and ice cream were served to the following boys and girls: Vivian Hazen, Gladys Williams, Birdella Layton, Alice Morgan, Frances Ross, Virginia Ripley, Helen Whitley, Mary Vermueller, Glenna May Lorton, Billy Boyd, Dickie Harmon, Elden Morgan, Gerhard Strandt, Adolph Salets, Wallace Wrangle, William Whisler, Connie Wright, Elnor Jarnell, Junior Staples, Mrs. Staples, and teacher, Mrs. Bardwell.

JUST SOME ELEMENTAL LOVE

Wallace Beery and Marie Dressler in a scene from "Min and Bill," which has proved one of the sensations of the season. The picture opens a four-day run at the Fox Broadway theater today.

DIVORCE COMEDY AT FOX WEST COAST

"Divorce Among Friends," the Warner Bros. production which opens at the Fox West Coast theater, is one of the most captivating comedies of the year.

It is the story of a gallivanting young husband and a jealous wife—detailing the clever ways by which she captures his love. A new combination of players is seen in this picture, James Hall, appearing as the husband of beautiful Irene Delroy. It is a cigarette-lighter, given by the wife to her husband, and passed on by him to a designing and decorative blonde, that sets the story going.

There are many amusing sequences, one being that in which the eloping husband and blonde—with wife and a sheik hidden in the back seat of the car—are stalled in the mud during a driving rain and then held up by highwaymen.

Unusually clever performances are given by every one in the cast, which includes the suave Lew Cody, Natalie Moorhead and Edward Martindel.

POSTMEN GUESTS OF FOX HOUSE FRIDAY

Mail carriers of Santa Ana are to be the guests of the Fox West Coast theater Friday night and will attend the theater in a body, according to an announcement made today by Norman E. Sprowl, Fox theater manager here.

"When free things are handed out, everybody thinks of the policemen and the firemen and no one ever thinks of the mail carriers. That is the reason we are asking the postmen to be our guests at the first of family night parties which we expect to have at the theater in the future," Sprowl said today.

The picture which the postmen and their wives will see is "The Passion Flower," starring Kay Francis and Kay Johnson. There also will be vaudeville.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY NAL COCHRAN — PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

The native surely had the knack of paddling. As he pushed straight back the small canoe moved on with speed and hardly made a sound. "I'll keep in mid-stream, lads," said he. "Then we're as safe as we can be. If we go too near to the shore, the boat might run aground."

"Just take it easy. Don't be scared. Out in the open you'll be aired. Breathe deeply. It will make you grow and also make you strong. I'll do the work and you can rest. I know you lads all like them best. There's naught but fun ahead of us and nothing can go wrong."

"That's fine," said Scouty, with a smile. "But I will paddle after while if you begin to get tired out. I'd like to try my hand. I've rowed a boat, but paddling, I guess, is quite a different thing. However, if you'll show me how, I know I'll understand."

"All right; We'll see," the native cried. "But, frankly, lad, this sort of ride will never tire me out a bit. I'm used to it, you see. And, anyway, when night arrives you'll have the time of your young lives. We'll stop at shore and put up camp. That's thrilling as can be."

So, on they rode through the day. At meal time they sat out on blankets, and the Tinies moon nearly starved. And it was dark. So, up on shore, Scouty went and 'bout a half hour was spent in cooking up a supper. All the bunch thought this a lark.

"Twas such a clear and moonlit night the bunch agreed 'twould be all right to just sleep out on blankets, and the Tinies soon drifted off. The native, with a voice quite strong, sat up and sang a merry song. He then played on an instrument and made the Tinies grin.

Missing Letter Links

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

SHERLOCK HOLMES—The Naval Treaty

THE BLIND was not down in your room," Holmes continued to Phelps, "and I could see Miss Harrison sitting there by the table reading. It was a quarter past ten when she closed her book and retired. I heard her shut the door, and felt quite sure that she had turned the key in the lock."

"The key!" exclaimed Phelps.

"Yes, I had given Miss Harrison instructions to lock the door on the outside, and take the key with her when she went to bed. She carried out every one of my instructions to the letter, otherwise you certainly would not have the stolen treaty in your coat pocket. The lights went out, and I was left squatting in the rhododendron bed."

"The night was fine, but it was a weary vigil. Of course I had the sort of excitement about it that a true sportsman feels when he lies beside the watercourse and waits for big game. It was very long, though. There was a church clock down at Woking which struck the quarters, and I thought more than once that it had stopped."

"At last, however, about two in the morning, I heard the gentle sound of a lock being pushed back and the creaking of a key. A moment later the servant's door at the side of the house opened, and out into the moonlight stepped Mr. Joseph Harrison!"

"I am sorry to hear that you have been so ill, Mr. Harrison," said Holmes, "but I am glad to hear that you are now well enough to be able to tell me the story of the stolen treaty."

"Yes, Mr. Holmes," said Harrison, "I am now well enough to be able to tell you the story of the stolen treaty."

PROS AND CONS

The Wickersham report holds the center of the stage in public thought today. Editorials from scores of newspapers over the country are being published, commenting on this report. There is almost a universality of agreement that as a contribution to the solution of the problem for which the commission was supposed to have been appointed, it is worthless.

There is reason for this. The difficulty lies primarily in the misconception of elected officials who are called upon to act when they have had nothing to do with bringing about the conditions which confront them and do not understand their implications. The difficulty lay in the misconception that the leaders and the millions who had been instrumental in adopting prohibition had adopted it as an "experiment." It was not done as an "experiment" at all. After 100 years of experiment with all kinds of attempted regulation, confining it to certain days and certain hours and to certain classes of people, prohibiting its sale to minors, prohibiting it to drunkards, supposedly, and with "low" license and "high" license, and government ownership and local prohibition and county prohibition and state prohibition, it was adopted as a conclusion.

The consensus of opinion among the great majority who had addressed themselves to the problem was that the time for experiment had ended, and the only thing left was the absolute prohibition of its manufacture and sale. This conclusion had been reached. There had been just two armies in the country, one that was fighting for the conclusion of the experiment in the form of prohibition, and the other for the continuance of experiment by every other method. But the battle had been won.

Those who were instrumental in bringing the nation to prohibition were in the majority. They supported President Hoover in his candidacy for the presidency. By reason of that support very largely, he was elected. And strange to say, he took the view not of the leaders who had led the movement for 25 to 50 years, but he took the view that we were still in the "experimental" period, and he always referred to this conclusion and solution as an "experiment." He did not see the situation as a war between two uncompromising, contending factions. Having just arrived at the view of it, that other people had reached years ago, he appointed a commission to study it, when probably on no question on earth were there more facts from medical journals, scientific journals, industrial experiments and data concerning law enforcement than there were upon this question.

Strange to say, the majority of the commission were appointed from that army which had always been opposed to the majority, and to the adoption of prohibition itself. From a practical point of view, it would have been the same as Mr. Lincoln appointing a commission at the conclusion of the Civil war to study the "experiment" of having a Confederacy, when the war had settled the question, just as the fight for prohibition for 75 years had settled the question. No, the only thing to do at the conclusion of the Civil war was to proceed.

To be sure, the Negro question has not yet been fully solved, but the sanction of the government in the status of one man owning the body and soul of another man has been withdrawn, and we are working out the problem in the spirit of democracy. In the same way, illegal traffic in liquor still obtains, but the government has withdrawn its sanction, connivance and protection to the crime of drunkard-making, as a traffic or a business by men.

The only experiment that was before us was how best to see that the expressed will of the majority of the people was carried into effect. But there was a misconception of the nature of the experiment. The idea of the President was that we were still experimenting on whether we wanted to continue in that form, under any circumstances, the legalized exploitation by one group of people of the other through the alcoholic route.

We are confident that if any commission is to be appointed in relation to this matter, it should be a commission whose thoughts are entirely directed to the consideration of the means by which the Constitution and law can better be enforced, but not to the proposition of going back from the promised land into the wilderness and wandering another 40 years through the same experiments of which we have had a plenty for all national purposes.

One commission President Hoover is probably glad he didn't appoint is the New York Boxing Commission.

FRANCE AND ITALY

After discussing and disputing for these many months over the question of naval armament, France and Italy have finally agreed that there is only one way out, and that is to each build a navy as big and as fast as they can. In other words, they will compete with one another in navy construction.

It is difficult to know which one is to blame for the condition. Listening to either, it sounds as though she was justified, if you are going to grant a navy at all. France wanted parity with Italy in the Mediterranean, and then an additional 150,000 tons displacement to meet whatever Germany possessed and then some in addition to keep up communication with her distant colonies, and of course Italy would stand for nothing but parity.

But these discussions and conclusions will be really helpful in the end, for the end must be general disarmament. It is the only conclusion to which one can come. The settlement of disputes through a judicial tribunal eliminates the necessity of fighting it out with a gun, and the fact that armaments are becoming so expensive, as well as wars becoming so annihilating, the method of peaceful settlement looms large as the only logical outcome.

SURPLUS WHEAT VS. HUNGRY PEOPLE

Now a suggestion has come from the Farm Board that 20,000,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat shall be turned over to the hungry. It is proposed to credit the Farm Board with the average cost of this wheat. The wheat has been purchased by the Farm Board with government money to sustain the price of wheat in the United States.

This has been a direct act by the government to help the farmers. Whether it has permanently helped them is a question that only time can tell, but whether it will or not, the government has furnished the money to do it, and the wheat is in the bins. At the same time, many people are hungry. The price of wheat has been sustained for the farmer through government money in order that the farmer may live. For the same purpose, it has been urged that the starving should be aided during this time of stress.

Probably there will be a great many who will favor giving the people the wheat who might not favor loaning them the money with which to buy the wheat. Frankly, we cannot see the difference between the two plans. If there is any argument against one over the other, it would be against the use of the wheat directly, because the money might be considered as a loan, but the wheat is simply "dole" food that could not be returned in kind.

But in any case we are for it. With the granaries of the country bursting with millions of bushels of wheat, practically owned by the government itself, and with millions of our own people with their outstretched hands craving it, the position then of our denying it to them would be really ridiculous if it were not so pathetic.

Releasing the Fetters of Fear

The Christian Science Monitor
From its industrial and economic trials of the last few months the world is learning a lesson of tremendous import, the relation of fear to depression and impoverishment. It is no new thing that has been thus wrought out of the agonies of unemployment and lack, although today it is finding expression in more different directions than ever before, and being recognized by broad-visioned executives and business men on all sides. Not long since, for instance, Gilbert T. Hodges, president of the Advertising Federation of America, urged the wide use of advertising "to release from the fetters of fear the great potential buying power of this nation, thereby assuring the quick return of prosperity."

That time and space are being eliminated from humanity's experience has become almost a platitude. Yet, if a right estimate is to be reached of twentieth century progress, it is essential that the fact be appreciated that countless limitations which our forefathers labored long and earnestly to overcome are today not even thought of as hampering mankind's activities. Moreover, therefrom develops a great responsibility of maintaining a fundamentally right attitude toward prosperity and the general problems of industry.

Fear spreads like a forest fire, unless the suggestions underlying it be held in check. The world needs confidence in its destiny. It is crying for that assurance of foundational plenty which has but to be recognized to be unleashed. Faith is a great accelerator of prosperity, and the conviction that well-directed efforts toward a worthy goal obtain results, inspires endeavor and brings forth fruitage in abundant measure. There is no basic reason for pessimism. Sound judgment, built upon the certain expectancy of good, defies false apprehensions, and discovers numberless opportunities for progressive achievement.

Just the other day Miss Jane Addams declared, at a luncheon given in her honor by the New York State Branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, that the casting out of fear is the beginning of peace. She was making special reference of course, to the problem of war, but reasoned to the larger issue from experiences in her social work in Hull House, Chicago. She described vividly how she had watched fear grip men and women this winter who "anticipated hunger for their young ones before that hunger appeared." The love felt by these parents, which they felt justified this attitude, is really more a matter of unreasoning terror than true affection. Well did John write in his First Epistle: "There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear."

Humanity today is hungering and thirsting after the love thus described. It is not found in unjustified material apprehensiveness. It represents the heart of the idealism of true Christianity. The salvation of the world depends upon the practical application of the apostle's vision. The time for its demonstration is the ever-present now.

Advertising Sound Investment

Passadena Star-News
A great eastern publishing house, which publishes several magazines of nation-wide circulation, used five solid pages of advertising in a Los Angeles newspaper, in a single issue. That advertising cost a large sum. And yet the same advertisement appeared in many great newspapers throughout the country.

First, that this huge publishing concern, the ears of whose managers are constantly to the ground to catch the drift of the economic tide, foresees an early betterment of the economic status of the country. Second, that this great publishing house regards Southern California as a favorable spot in which to build up circulation for magazines.

The magazine publishers who placed this huge advertising order are men of large affairs and of seasoned judgment. They would not expend thousands of dollars in placing this advertisement if they were not reasonably sure that it would pay them. It will pay them. For while it may be and unquestionably is "hard times" with many, in all parts of the country, yet there are great numbers who have steady income and comfortable means and are financially able to subscribe for magazines and to buy merchandise.

The fact that one of the greatest magazine publishing houses in the United States advertises so extensively in newspapers denotes an intelligent faith in the value of newspaper advertising.

BACK TO BABYLAND

(Professor Ogburn told the scientists convened in Cleveland that in the future infancy may be prolonged thirty years or more, owing to the increasing complications of life.)

The human race is filled so fast

With scientific lore

That childhood soon will likely last

For thirty years or more.

When one is twenty-one years old

His wits will be too slow—

His understanding will not hold

The half he needs to know.

Exceeding wisdom he must reap

To gain the mental pep

And keen intelligence to keep

In scientific step.

And meanwhile, as his questing brain

With theories he fills,

His parents will be forced to gain

The means to pay his bills.

A father's task will not be done

Till he is old and gray,

His infant son of twenty-one,

He'll find to his dismay,

Will every week be writing home

From some expensive college

For funds with which to fill his dome

With scientific knowledge.

In youth I had no such a break,

I labored night and day

Till the night when death might make

To keep the wolf away.

I know I missed a lot of fun

And, as the swift years pass,

I wish I'd been at twenty-one

Still in the infant class!

Another Thought for Thrift
WeekBy WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

If we had to confine ourselves to a ten-word telegram, in recording the economic history of the late lamented Year of Our Lord, 1930, we should write:

THE YEAR WAS SPENT IN SAVING MONEY AND SPENDING MEN.

The waste of men is a loss which never can be made up. It is water over the dam. No matter how much the jobless workers produce in the future, they will never produce anything in the hours that are gone. They might have created five billion dollars worth of goods. Actually, they created nothing but social unrest.

Most of that waste of man power would have been avoided if business had been based on the principle advocated by the American Federation of Labor. In that case, increases in the real wages of workers would have kept pace with the increased productivity of workers.

Capital as well as labor can continue to prosper, only if the buying power of labor increases at the same rate as the productive power of labor. For employers of labor cannot realize profits unless they can find markets; but for markets, employers depend chiefly to the laborers, themselves.

That is now commonplace. Nearly everybody accepts it. And the general acceptance of that truth may turn out to be the greatest economic gain of this generation.

It is perfectly possible to establish business on that solid foundation. Everything is now ready—everything except a National Peace-Time Planning Board, with knowledge and power enough to influence expenditures, both public and private, for the common good.

With such a Board permanently on the job, expenditures would rise promptly with the first certain signs of deflation, and fall promptly with the first certain signs of inflation. Wages would keep pace with production. That would be enough to prevent another national tragedy like the one from which we are just beginning to recover.

We need never pass another twelve months saving money and spending men. It is thrifter to spend money and save men.

The doorbell rang this afternoon and I went and it was some lady to see me. Being a kind of a thin lady name Mrs. Pitts that come to our house to play bridge sometimes when ma don't know who she is to ask, and she said, is your mother home, Benny?

Yes mam, I sed, and she sed, I'm glad to hear it, because she's really not expecting me.

And she went in and sat down in the front room and I started to go upstairs to tell ma, and just then the bell rang again and I went and it was Puds Simkins, saying, Come on out.

Which I did in about 10 minnts, and I went up in my room and started to fix the books in my bookcase according to size just to keep my mind off my homework a little longer, and all of a sudden I remembered something, thinking, G wizz, Mrs. Pitts.

And I quick went downstairs and she was still sitting in the front room looking unsatisfied, and I sed, Ma issent home, Mrs. Pitts.

Well of all things, did it take you this long to find that out? Mrs. Pitts said.

Mam? I sed, and she sed, O hush up, how can a child be so stupid?

And she quick went out without waiting for a answer, and when ma come home I told her Mrs. Pitts had come to see her and ma sed, Well Im glad I wasent in.

Making me feel lucky.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

IDLE MONEY AND HOME BUILDING

Yesterday I suggested, among other things, that during 1931 we can quadruple the volume of home building in the United States if we will but do two things.

First, if we focus our inventive genius upon devising ways and means of building homes for the masses more cheaply.

Second, if we focus our financial genius upon devising ways and means for providing reasonable and long-time credit for such building.

We have drained so much of our inventive genius into the making and perfecting of machinery that we have not done our best in reducing the costs of home building.

It is almost universally recognized by now that the cheap automobile factor can be said to have been, the backbone of the unprecedented prosperity of the last decade.

What, is asked on every corner, is to take the place of the cheap automobile as a factor in the prosperity of the next decade or two?

I nominate the cheap but good and beautiful small home for the masses as successor to the automobile as the backbone of national prosperity for a long stretch of years to come.

Who will be the Ford of the Fire-side?

Let's set research and invention at work, double shift, on the job of reducing the costs of construction of small and beautiful homes for the millions.

Let's challenge the architects to realize that the creation of millions of beautiful but moderately priced homes is an enterprise equal in dignity and significance to the creation of a Chartres or a Westminster Abbey.

When we have them built, they may seem to the historian, when taken together, as a kind of secular cathedral of the commoners.

Let's challenge the financial genius of the nation to find ways and means of putting the idle money of the nation into this socially significant and economically sound enterprise.

We could well afford to evolve long-term credit under which the masses might retire their obligations virtually on a modest rental basis.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

OVERDOING

It is too easy to overdo things. In the flush of enthusiasm that always accompanies a new idea, a new resolution, a new method, we are likely to err on the side of over-activity. In the field of child training this sometimes undoes the good we often would do. Too much is as bad as too little, and sometimes it is worse.

Take spinach, now. I can hear you say you would rather leave it. So would I. And so would many and many a child. Why not leave it for a little while and come back to it occasionally. There are other greens, and other meats to eat them too. Spinach is not the only road to dietary salvation. Nobody with human intelligence can eat spinach day after day without revolting.

Then there's bedtime stories. If a child hears about the Rabbit, the Bear and the Fox too many evenings he becomes deaf to their appeal. Mental deafness is a form of self-defense that nature kindly provided us with so that when anybody said too much we might retreat to the gentle silences of the spirit. Why not alternate the story with music? With a reading from a new story book? With a tale of When I Was a Boy Like You? The change will be most welcome.

The daily routine falls if no variety is injected. There are certain fixed responsibilities, fixed charges on the physical self that must be respected on schedule time. But it is possible to make them more tolerable by varying the process a little. A new sort of soap will bring pleasure to the morning scrub. Another sort of cooked fruit than the sad colored prune brings smiles to the breakfast round. A ride to school instead of the daily trudge lightens the day, especially if it comes as a surprise.

The element of surprise is too often wanting in the child's day. Everything is too much like everything else that has ever happened to make the doing of it worth while. A slight change, a shifting of the usual program within its limitations stirs the imagination and releases the mind somewhat. Anything that is new, and pleasant, acts as a stimulant to the mental powers. Too much routine dead-ens the life within and without.

Suppose the children came to breakfast and found that the table had been moved to the sunny window, and there was a bunch of flowers in the middle of it? Suppose they came home from school prepared for the usual round of an ice-box snack, change of clothes, chores, and found a couple of friends waiting to share dainties? Or father on hand to take them to the movies? Or grandmother waiting to give them a ride in the park? Or gramp all ready for a drive to the farm?

Even school can stand a break in the routine now and then. In it must have a change, the thrill and the excitement on a school entertainment, a bazaar, exhibition, now and then if it is to keep steadily functioning.

Try not to do too much of anything, even good. Temperance in all things is best. Variation is necessary for health. That is the reason we have the needs of nature to console us. Better take the hint they offer and dwell briefly in one spot, especially in child training. You can always return, you know. And the return will be stronger for the break.

FREMONT'S BIRTH

On Jan. 21, 1813, John Fremont, "the pathfinder," distinguished explorer of the Rocky Mountains, was born at Savannah, Ga.

Following his education at Charleston College, S. C., he taught mathematics on a warship for two years. A few years later he served as a topographical engineer to the French explorer, Jean Nicolle. His experiences with Nicolle furnished him invaluable training for use in his later career and gave him a desire for further western adventure.

In 1842 Fremont crossed the Rocky Mountains and demonstrated the feasibility of an overland route across the continent. A year later he explored Great Salt Lake and in 1846 he examined the watershed between the Mississippi and the Pacific.

During the Mexican War Fremont cleared northern California of Mexican troops, but, quarreling with his superior officers, resigned his captaincy. In 1849, after an expedition up the Rio Grande, Fremont crossed over to California, where he settled.

The following year he became

United States senator from the new state. In 1856 he was the Republican and Anti-slavery candidate for the presidency. In 1861-2 he served in the regular army as major general, but resigned rather than serve under General Pope. He later became governor of Arizona.

ALL EVEN

"I'm afraid we've made rather a mess of your field," said the male member of the picnic couple to the farmer on whose grounds they were camping.

"Never mind," the farmer replied, "you should see the mess the village youngsters have made of your car."—Tit-Bits.
